

Reject pleas to change tax bill

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Pleas by automobile dealers in Granite City that their businesses will be ruined unless the Granite City Council alters or reduces its supplemental one percent city sales tax were flatly rejected by the council on a 13 to 1 vote Tuesday night.

The council also followed the recommendation of senior Alderman Sam Whitmer and "turned a deaf ear" on a plea by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce that the sales tax ordinance be amended to include a "cap," limiting the maximum city sales tax on purchases to $5.

Two resolutions submitted by Bill Woodrome of Woodrome Oldsmobile, Inc., to amend the tax were at first referred to the council's ordinance committee, but the aldermen then changed their mind and voted 13-1 to "throw out" the resolutions.

Woodrome has told the council at previous meetings that Granite City new car dealerships cannot survive when they have to charge about $150 more per car than their competitors in Collinsville, Edwardsville, St. Louis and other nearby cities.

On behalf of the new car dealers of Granite City, Woodrome asked the council to consider passing one of two resolutions he submitted. One would have excluded from the tax any selling price in excess of $500, which would have set a cap of $5 of tax on any item purchased.

The other resolution would have excluded automobile sales, new and used, from the sales tax and would have replaced it with a one percent sales tax to be paid annually by any Granite City resident who has purchased an auto during the past year, in Granite City or elsewhere. That tax would have been collected by the purchaser applied for his tax city sticker, according to Woodrome's suggestion.

City Clerk Robert W. Stevens read the council letter attached to the resolutions from Woodrome, but Mayor Paul Schuler stepped him from reading the resolutions out loud. "Everyone (every alderman) has a copy, so there is no need to read them," Schuler said. (Those in the audience did not have a copy.)

City council votes 14-0 to approve new GC zoning law

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Granite City has a new zoning ordinance.

The city council Tuesday night unanimously gave its final approval to the 87-page document which updates the city's old zoning code by expanding the number of business and industrial categories and by allowing planned unit developments to be approved as complete projects without specific requirements for each lot in a development.

Passage of the zoning ordinance followed a lengthy, and at times heated, debate between city officials and members of the Granite City Board of Realtors. In the end, the realtors lost their bid, finding very little council support for setting aside portions of Madison Avenue and Johnson and Pontoon roads for future commercial development.

Before the new zoning ordinance takes effect, it must be published in booklet form and the council will have to "fill in the blanks," dealing with the various licensing fees. The ordinance states, "The city council, by resolution, shall establish fees relating to the administration of this ordinance. Said fees are to be posted in the city hall by the city clerk."

Currently, there is a $15 filing fee for a zoning change request and the person applying is responsible for purchasing a legal advertisement in the Press-Record notifying the public of the date and time of a public hearing on the request.

"They might want to change that, but I think they are working on a package for all city uses (building permits, business licenses and others) and may include these in that fee package," according to David Morgan, chairman of the city's Urban Commission, which helped formulate the new zoning plan and conducted public hearings on it prior to asking the city council to adopt it.

Morgan praised the new zoning ordinance, saying it will give the city greater flexibility in placing zoning requests in their proper categories.

"We now have seven commercial categories and only had two before. There now are three industrial categories where we only had two before."

In addition, we now have planned unit developments and planned industrial district categories, which we did not have before, at all," Morgan said.

Stipulations relating to the use of special use permits have been "drastically changed," in Morgan's opinion. "The announcement comes in that is not in the ordinance, say a lollipop factory, we can put it in a category which is compatible with the surrounding area."

"Special use permits were circumventing everything and we wanted something that we could say, 'Put in this category,' and it will always be in that category," Morgan said.

Morgan explained that special use permits were being sought by numerous types of businesses, from beauty shops to dental and medical offices and to real estate firms, and it was left to the discretion of the Plan Commission and city council to determine whether each request should be granted or denied. Certain approvals led to strip zoning, which set a legal precedent and subsequent denials then were challenged in court and the courts ordered that the permits be granted, he said.

He predicted that the new zoning ordinance will stop such strip zoning and contended that he believes the courts will have to uphold the city in challenges to the new zoning document.

The council made one change in the new zoning ordinance Tuesday night. At the request of Alderman Dale

Students' lunch price to be cut

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Granite City students' lunch price is to be cut from $1.25 to $1.20 effective Nov. 16, and a $1 option also was approved by the Board of Education on Tuesday night.

Menu offerings available to elementary and junior high school pupils are to be expanded, it was decided.

A 29 percent drop in student lunch revenue in the first through twelfth grades this fall has been reduced to 26 percent, aided by a loss of only 21 percent last week, Superintendent B. J.

Davis said.

He outlined a series of steps that will be taken to encourage a further return of students to the hot lunch program offered in each of the 18 schools.

The $1 lunch will feature fruit that is made available but can be omitted upon the pupil's request.

Another Nov. 16 change will be a slash in inflated milk prices when combined with a "Type A" lunch. Instead of 50 cents, which will remain the price for a milk purchased by itself, the change will be cut to about 30 or 35 cents, depending on the bids received.

Effective this week, pizza is being offered as an alternate entree on Type A lunches.

Supervisor J. Davis said, "To meet Type A standards, a lunch must contain two ounces of protein, 3 ounces of bread or cereal, plus eight ounces of milk and three-fourths of a cup of fruit and/or vegetables."

"We are updated to serve some form of Type A lunch, but the format can be altered, and the approach is being highly liberalized."

"The delivery of offer vs. serve has recently been resolved to permit the vegetable fruit component to be offered rather than served on students' plates."

"If we do not automatically serve these items, many more options become available for cost savings, less waste, and alternate food disturbances at the time of actual serving. The alternative can be any one or a combination of the following lunch formats."

"1. Conventional Type A, prepared on site, as is currently done."

GC woman hit by car, dies

An elderly Granite City woman died Tuesday night as a result of injuries suffered when she was struck by a car a short time earlier while crossing Madison Avenue from a grocery store.

Mrs. Violet (Feigenbaum) Schreiber, 77, of 20154 Grand Ave., died in the operating room at St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 9:27 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 6, 1981.

She had sustained massive internal injuries and fractures to the right hip and left arm in the accident which occurred in the 2000 block of Madison Avenue at 6:59 p.m. Tuesday.

A coroner's inquest is pending.

Mrs. Schreiber was carrying a bag of groceries after apparently shopping at the A&P Grocery store when she was hit by a car operated by Francis J. Favier, 71, of 1452 Fourth St., Madison.

Favier, whose vehicle was traveling south in the curb lane, told police he heard a noise and then saw Mrs.

Schreiber lying on the pavement. He had not seen the woman prior to hearing the noise, he told officers.

Mrs. Schreiber had walked across both northbound lanes and one southbound lane of Madison Avenue before being struck.

Hundreds tour port, locks in observance of Port Week

MID-RIVER CEREMONY on the Mississippi River Monday afternoon as Missouri Lt. Gov. Kenneth Rothman, in the black suit with back to camera, and Illinois Senator Sam Vadalabene exchange proclamations declaring this Port of Metropolitan St. Louis Week. Standing at the speaker's table between Rothman and Vadalabene is former St. Louis mayor John Poelker, interim director of the Bi-State Development Agency. The speakers are standing on a barge pushed by the U.S. Corps of Engineers tugboat "Pathfinder" and in the background is the "Senator Sam" from Army Fleet Service in the Tri-City Regional Port, which brought about 35 Illinois dignitaries to mid-river for the ceremony.

Hundreds of students and senior citizens have toured the Tri-City Regional Port and Locks 27 this week and hundreds more are expected to take advantage of open house activities tomorrow and Saturday at the local port facility, which is celebrating Port of Metropolitan St. Louis Week.

Activities of the special week began Monday when about 35 Quad-City area dignitaries boarded the tugboat "Senator Sam" and were piloted down the Chain of Rocks Canal and the Mississippi by the tugboat's namesake, Illinois Senator Sam Vadalabene.

Before beginning the trip, Vadalabene was awarded an honorary river pilot license by Capt. Sandy Tanos, captain of the Port of Metropolitan St. Louis for the U.S. Corps of Engineers. It came in handy as the "Senator Sam" approached the locks, Lockmaster Jerry Wade noticed the somewhat irregular course the tugboat was taking and asked over the radio, "Who do you have driving that thing, some corporate vice-president?"

Darrell Stephens, vice-president of Art's Fleet Service and a river pilot, was able to answer back, "No, we've got the senator driving."

Vadalabene took the boat through the locks and out into the Middle of the Mississippi to greet the Corps of Engineers tugboat "Pathfinder" and its celebrity barge, which was filled with Missouri dignitaries and press representatives.

The Illinois representatives joined those from our sister state on the barge where Vadalabene and Lt. Gov. Kenneth J. Rothman of Missouri exchanged proclamations for Port Week. Hosting the exchange and speeches which accompanied them was former St. Louis mayor John Poelker, Interim

Urges vetoes be sustained to keep budget in balance

Governor James R. Thompson has urged Illinois legislators to sustain $435 million in vetoes he has made in order to keep Illinois' budget in balance.

In meetings with legislative leaders and in a letter to each member of the General Assembly, the governor asked for support to avoid severely cutting basic spending or increasing taxes in the state.

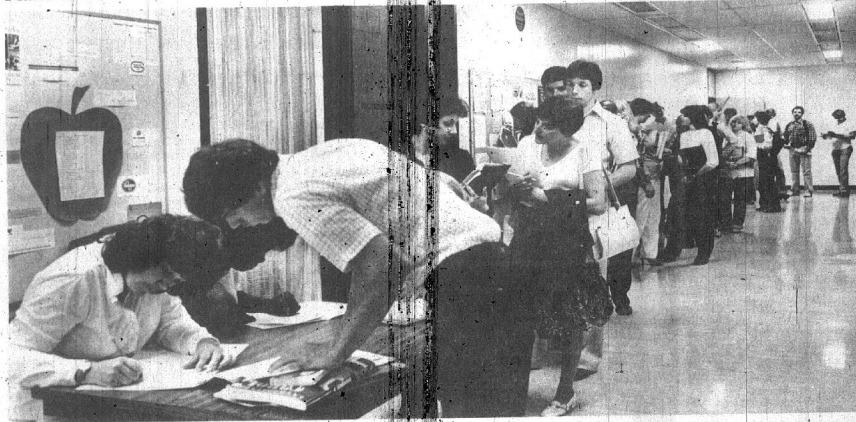

"The final appropriation, after my vetoes, stand at $4.24 billion," the governor told legislators. "This is $435 million below the amount passed by the General Assembly."

"I am asking for your cooperation in not overriding this $435 million in vetoes. Without your previous cooperation, we would not be able to even attempt to get through recession without deep cuts in basic spending or new general taxes."

"With your continued cooperation, we can avoid the problems experienced by many of our neighboring states and remain financially strong."

"Without your continued cooperation in October, the consequences will be severe. Among the likely results of overriding my vetoes will be deep slashes in services elsewhere in the budget or tax increases."

A LINE OF THE TIMES. Students facing predicted tight job markets at graduation in June or August get an early but standing start on new careers by scheduling job interviews with 34 companies visiting Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville during October. Demand continues to be highest for graduates in accounting, engineering, business management and sales. David Van Horn, SIUE placement director, said employers can afford to pick from the best this year and will do most of the hiring before January. Sign ups for November interviews through University Placement Services will begin Oct. 28 based on schedules available Oct. 21.

Brenda Simmonds at banquet of Reading Council

Brenda Simmonds, lecturer in education, will be the guest speaker at the fall banquet of the Lewis and Clark Reading Council.

She is a lecturer in education, language and literature, primary curriculum, and reading education.

She lectures to parent groups throughout Queensland, and serves as consultant to Mount Gravatt Reading Centre. She has written editorials and publications and has research and writing in progress.

Weber asked if Nameoki supervisor may be in conflict of interest

State's Attorney Donald Weber has been asked to seek an opinion from the attorney general of Illinois whether Nameoki Township Supervisor Harry Briggs is in violation of state law in serving as a trustee of the Long Lake Fire Protection District and in hiring his wife for General Assistance.

George H. Miller, executive director of the Township Officials of Illinois, contends that Briggs is violating state statutes in both regards, but he notes that he is not an attorney and suggests that the township follow the advice of its attorney, Irvin C. Slate Jr.

In a letter to a township trustee, Miller stated, "The statutes are very clear that no township official may also serve as a trustee of a fire district if that district lies wholly within a single township."

"I imagine a case could be made for a township official serving out his term as a fire district trustee, if he held that position prior to his election (which is the case with Briggs). By my personal experience, however, I doubt it."

He said that no elected township official is eligible to serve as a fire district trustee. "The statutory reference does not distinguish between town trustees or supervisors, or town clerks, for that matter."

It clearly states no township official is eligible. The question of compatibility has nothing to do with funding of a district, it has to do with the appointing authority. "The same situation exists with many special districts. Members of the body that make appointments are prevented from serving on the boards they appoint," Miller continued.

He says there would be further conflict if the township passes into a contract with the fire district.

Miller said that he, George H. Miller, of the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs and Shawn Denny, chief of the Illinois Department of Public Aid, are in agreement that Briggs is violating state statutes in both regards, but he notes that he is not an attorney and suggests that the township follow the advice of its attorney, Irvin C. Slate Jr.

He notes, "It is felt by many attorneys in state government that, since the supervisor of General Assistance has authority to hire and set salaries for that office's employees, he would have a direct interest in the employment of any member of his family sharing the same home."

He said the law would not be so clear if Mrs. Briggs was hired for general office help, but there is pending litigation in other townships which may provide an answer in the near future.

Nameoki Township Trustee Helen Hawkins contends that the situation was discussed by Briggs and the town board in a recent executive session, from which the press and public were barred, and she had the impression that Briggs did not intend to do anything about the conflicts.

During a public meeting which followed, however, she said she referred in marked terms to the "personnel problem we discussed in closed session," and Briggs then said he would ask Slate to look into the matter.

Mrs. Hawkins said she had given a copy of Miller's letter every trustee two weeks prior to the executive session.

Briggs said Tuesday that Slate is asking State's Attorney Weber to seek an attorney general's opinion on the possible conflict of interest of serving as a township official and as a fire trustee.

The township has made contracts with the Long Lake Volunteer Fire Department, but not with the Long Lake Fire Protection District, "which are two separate animals," according to Briggs. (The fire protection district is the taxing body which supplies funds to operate the fire department.)

Since Slate wrote Weber to ask for an opinion, there has been no response, Briggs said.

Asked how his hiring of his wife would differ from the hiring by former Nameoki Township supervisor Louis Whitsell, which led to a judgment against the township, Briggs said there is a big difference.

When Whitsell hired his wife, the township was receiving state funds to support a shortage in the General Assistance Fund. "When you are on state funds, the state said who you hire and how much you pay them, but we have not qualified for state money for about two years, so the rules do not apply," Briggs contended.

He said he has asked several attorneys about the situation, and all seem to feel there is no conflict. However, Briggs said, he plans to seek an opinion from Weber on the hiring of his wife. "I am going to do that," he pledged.

He said that in order for the township to have to qualify for additional state funds, it would have to repay the general assistance fund about $10,000 which the state contends should be repaid by Whitsell as reimbursement for the money he paid his wife.

Also, the township would have to anticipate (borrow) about $15,000 to qualify for the state to "pick up the extra."

Mrs. Hawkins has alleged, without proof, that Briggs raised the township's general assistance levy last month so that it would not become necessary to apply for state funds, and have to live within the rules of Illinois Department of Public Aid.

Briggs denied that at public hearings on the increase.

Mrs. Hawkins said she wrote a letter to Slate Sept. 14, demanding that the questions be resolved before the township meets with Madison officials to study the possibility of a contract for fire service in the unincorporated areas of the township. "This problem, it would seem, needs to be answered before any contracts could be signed," she said in the letter.

She noted that it had been four months since she first brought the possible conflicts involving Briggs to Slate's attention, but had received no response. "I would appreciate your advice on these problems as soon as possible," she added.

She also said in the letter: "I feel it is my duty and moral obligation to the taxpayers to settle this problem before it also winds up in court some day. You can understand my position. I will give no official approval to anything that involves these matters until they are cleared up once and for all."

Vital statistics for year show little change

Fifty-five births in the Quad-City area during September were an increase of only seven over the 48 reported in the same month a year ago, while 43 deaths during the month was the same as a year ago, according to a vital statistics report released by City Clerk Robert Stevens.

The report showed there were no fetal deaths so far during 1981.

The births brought the total for the year to 474, compared to 481 for the first nine months of the 1980 year. The total of deaths during the nine months of this year stands at 420, a substantial increase over the 371 deaths for the same period of last year.

For the same period last year, there was a total of three fetal deaths.

SERVICE ACT

President Roosevelt signed the Selective Training and Service Act on Sept. 16, 1940.

Investigators handle 649 Illinois arson cases

In 1980, there were 649 arson or arson-suspected cases handled by the 14 arson investigators of the Office of the State Fire Marshal. These statistics do not include arson cases investigated by the Chicago Bomb and Arson Squad or arson investigations of other home-rule cities.

Almost 60 percent (375) of these incidents were turned over to local and state law enforcement agencies for criminal investigation. Of these, just under 27 percent (101) were prosecuted, resulting in 69 convictions and seven acquittals, with many cases still pending.

Jack H. Carter, Illinois State Fire Marshal, said, "Our arson investigators are experts who not only are doing a thorough job of determining the cause, origin and circumstances of fires, but frequently are giving expert testimony in arson cases that go on trial." Recent legislation, with amendatory veto by Governor James R. Thompson, would enable qualified state and local arson investigators to carry investigations beyond the determination of causes of fires. They would have the power to follow through with witness interrogation and suspect arrest and help build cases that would lead to successful prosecution.

Carter said, "If the General Assembly approves the governor's amendments, we will be able to apprehend, prosecute and convict more arsonists and discourage the crime of arson."

Substitute teacher pay is increased

Pay of substitute teachers in the Granite City system was raised to $41 a day by the School Board on Tuesday night.

Also effective for the 1981-82 year will be daily pay of $11 for school crossing guards in unincorporated areas of the district.

Teacher assistants will be paid $3.70 an hour, and campus monitors will receive $11.14 a year.

The rates outlined by Superintendent B. J. Davis and Terry M. Salem, administrative assistant for personnel, are based on a 10 percent increase over previous pay.

The board set the pay of seven executive secretaries at yearly figures ranging from $14,875 to $17,326. Their raises vary from $1,352 to $1,575.

To provide a faculty of sufficient size for the Title I federal instructional program, an additional teaching position was created. The individual will spend half the day at Logan School and the other half at Wilson School.

The board hired Mrs. Ann Peters for an elementary school teaching position to be assigned. She is one of the faculty members honorably dismissed at the end of the 1980-81 year due to a reduction in the total number of teaching posts in the district.

Mrs. Birdie Weiss was hired as crossing guard at Maryville School.

Ronald Dillard will be director of gates and admissions at Granite City High School North.

The board discussed but took no action on creating three new school lunch program positions—assistant director of food service, GCHS South unit manager and GCHS North unit manager.

Plaques were presented on behalf of the Board of Education by President Thomas Miosky to Stephen Saltich, past board president and a board member for six years before resigning, to become an alderman, and Mrs. Martha Rochester, retired secretary to the superintendent and board. Miosky noted that Mrs. Rochester has received recognition from the National Association of Secretaries. A resolution praised her 26-year service to the district as dedicated, outstanding and going far beyond the required duties.

These present applauded Saltich and Mrs. Rochester after the two ceremonies. In actions affecting the Quad-City special education district, Esther Vasiloff was employed as a psychologist at $10 a day for up to 180 days; it was decided to fill a bookkeeping position; and it was agreed to hire personnel directly rather than contracting with the mental health center for certain services.

The board suspended a high school student after it was noted that a hearing officer had upheld such action by the district.

Madison High plans school career day

Madison High School will hold its 26th Annual Career Day for Juniors and Seniors on Wednesday, Oct. 28 from 12 to 2:30.

Representatives from the various colleges and universities, schools of nursing, business schools, trade schools, industries, and various branches of the armed services will be in attendance. Each representative will have a designated space in the building for meeting and discussing with their students plans for the future.

There will be four 20 minute periods. The students change each period. Each student will be able to talk to four representatives of their choice. Over 200 students will take part in the Career Day.

Coffee and refreshments will be provided courtesy of the Home Economics Department.

Principal Dan Kostencki will welcome the guest representatives and discuss the program in detail. The students will meet in the auditorium for the kickoff assembly at 12:30. This program will be explained by the Principal Kostencki and the Counselors Lee Ashby and Charles Steptoe.

Junior and senior students from Venice High School have been invited to participate in this event with MIS students.

Ashby and Steptoe will be in charge of the program.

Students may request aid on only one form

Students attending Illinois colleges and universities will be able to request state, federal, and campus-based financial aid for the 1980-81 academic year by filing only one form.

The Illinois State Scholarship Commission has discontinued its own application for next year, and will accept information from the American College Testing Programs Family Financial Statement (ACT-FPS), the College Scholarship Program Financial Aid Form (CSS-F), or the Pell Grant Program (formerly called the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant).

The FFS, FAF, and Pell Grant applications should be available in late November and can be filed after Jan. 1, 1982. For state program consideration, students are asked to check "yes" to the "release-of-information" question on whichever form they are completing. This permission enables the federal processing system to release information state to agencies.

Notification of a student's eligibility for both the Pell Grant and the Illinois State Scholarship Commission's Monetary Award Program will be reported on the Pell Grant Student Eligibility Report (SER) sent directly to students.

Additionally, students seeking information regarding application status or corrections will use the Pell Grant toll-free telephone number, 1-800-423-6932 for inquiries.

Thompson says Sadat truly great

Governor James R. Thompson commended Tuesday regarding the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, saying that he was "a man with the rare ability to see the future and help mold it for the betterment of all mankind."

"His tragic death at such a critical time in the Middle East is unfortunate not only for the people of his country, but for the people of the world."

"Anwar Sadat was willing to take personal risks in his unending quest for lasting peace."

"His historic trip to Israel and his active role in the Camp David peace talks are just two examples of his deep commitment to bring peace to his region of the world."

"Few men have had that vision, the vision to lead others to a better life and cooperation with their neighbor. We have lost a truly great man."

Students' lunch

"2. Conventional Type A, prepared off site, delivered by a caterer.

"3. Type A classification, box lunch format, prepared off or on site.

"4. Type A classification, ala carte format, prepared off or on site, with milk for the drink.

"5. Type A classification, ala carte format, prepared off or on site, with a malt as the drink.

"6. Separate food items, offered as a revenue-producing function. A Type A lunch must also be available.

"Based on the various facts, information and opinions reached as a result of meetings with persons in the field, and statistical results of a student survey, it is recommended that the following lunch program format be adopted in all elementary and junior high schools (already in operation at the high schools):

"A. The conventional Type A lunch, prepared on site, will be offered. As of Nov. 16, the price will be $1.20 with milk.

"A vegetable will be served to the plate, and fruit will be offered. Malt can be purchased from the ala carte items at a discount price of perhaps 30 cents; this is not a component of the Type A lunch, but will be offered as an incentive to purchase a Type A lunch.

"The malt discount price is estimated at this time and will be finalized upon receipt of bid price.

"B. The grade school and junior high ala carte Type A lunch will be composed of any one of three main dishes, which will be determined as favorites from the student survey.

"The milk will be included, but the fruit-vegetable will be offered and the pupil may choose to accept, without cost, or not to accept these items. The price will be $1.

"Main dishes will be purchased from an outside vendor, as determined by bids received. Malt will be available as described in Section A.

"C. Ala carte items, in the main, will be provided from an outside vendor on a bid basis.

"D. Regarding separate foods or ala carte items, students may purchase the following:

"Milk, estimated price of 20 cents.

"Malt, 50 cents, or if a Type A plate is purchased, an estimated 30 cents.

"Ice cream, 25 cents.

"Sandwich or pizza, 75 cents.

"French fried potatoes, prepared on site at junior high schools and by elementary schools if production is feasible, 40 cents.

"These recommendations are made with the belief that the hours of labor will not increase. Revenue should increase due to greater student participation," Supt. Davis said.

"The student preferring the conventional Type A will have the opportunity to continue at a five-cent reduction in price, from $1.25 to $1.20.

"The student not eating school lunches due to the menu options will have the opportunity to choose the sandwich or pizza selection.

"If price is a deterrent, he or she may select milk to drink with the ala carte Type A plate for a total of $1.

"If the price is a later consideration, he or she may select a malt drink on an ala carte basis Type A lunch plate at a total of $1.30.

"All the ala carte items, either on the plate or as individual items, should present no insurmountable storage, production or distribution problems," the superintendent said.

"The cafeteria program changes will be explained on the school district's after-hours and weekend automatic telephone answering service, 870-6000.

Other merchandising techniques are under study and specific recommendations will be submitted to the School Board at a later meeting.

Supt. Davis traced the history of the Granite City school lunch program to the 1980s, saying that "it has grown from the efforts of a few volunteer mothers—intent on serving their children a well-balanced lunch—to a comprehensive program available to every student enrolled at each school."

"The lunch program has long been established as an intrinsic component of our total school system. But through the years it has not been self-supporting, necessitating deficits, which were made up from the education fund."

"The loss reached an all-time high in the 1980-81 school year and totaled $506,080.

"This figure is based on an actual loss to the district, whereas the total loss figure quoted in a Providence Consulting and Marketing Service report was based on the cost of food only. The state system lists the fair market price of government commodities, while we only pay the shipping costs for commodities."

"It cost the school district $1,506 to produce each plate of food during the 1980-81 year, and there was a net loss per plate of $1.2 cents. There were several contributing factors.

"Government commodities have been significantly decreased. While the food itself is free, transportation costs are paid, and labor costs and indirect costs in utilizing certain commodities must be considered.

"The cost of labor accounted for 51.8 percent of the overall cost in preparing lunches in 1980-81. Average hourly wage, including fringe benefits, for a cafeteria employee was $8.10 in our district. This was considerably above the minimum wage and was among the highest in surrounding areas.

"The amount of purchased food has decreased, but only due to fewer pupils served, and this basically has been offset by increased food costs.

"Government reimbursements have abruptly decreased over the last several years. As an example, in 1980-81 a reimbursement of five cents was paid for each carton of special milk (kindergarten and second servings). As of Sept. 30, 1981, this reimbursement ended.

"Reimbursements on plate lunches have been modified as follows from '80-81 to '81-82: all lunches, 17.25 cents cut to 10.5 cents; reduced lunches (pupils buying a reduced price lunch pay 40 cents), 63.5-cent reimbursement reduced to 58.75 cents; and free lunches, $1,242.5 reimbursement cut to $1,137.5.

"Comparing the number of students eating lunches at this time last year with the average number eating lunches during the first five days of this year, there is a decrease of 39 percent, with a corresponding drop in revenue of 29 percent.

"On Sept. 16, of 3,250 Type A lunches served, 1,862 of the students were recipients of either a free or reduced-price lunch—57 percent of the total.

"Providence was employed to study the cafeteria operations, and it suggested employing additional administration in the form of an assistant cafeteria manager at the district level.

"The assistant would help the director organize, manage and evaluate all phases of the cafeteria operations.

"In addition to this, two unit managers would be utilized at the high school level. Interviews have been conducted, and administrative recommendations will be brought before the Board of Education Oct. 30.

The goal is to achieve greater consistency in food quality.

"Providence also has outlined the possibility of establishing a satellite or ala carte and sack lunch program.

"Start-up equipment cost for a satellite program (several schools served with food prepared at another school) would be an estimated $183,918.

"Another result of the study was the increase in lunch prices last month.

"Representatives of the board office have made site visits and/or spoken with officials from several agencies.

"The Open Kitchens, Inc., production facility in Madison was visited. Several conferences were held with General Manager Gene Tucci and other employees.

Sample lunches were viewed, taste samples were made, and a tentative proposal was received.

"Lanshire's president, Jody Trober, and salesman, Les Van Dillen, met several times with School District Nine school reporting successful programs, Washington (Ill.) High School, East Peoria High School and the Rochester, Ill., School (grades 1-12). Samples of the products and a tentative proposal were received.

"The Lanshire company currently wants to continue research on the process for supplying malts, and to observe our daily operation.

"Conferences were held with ARA Services on two occasions, relative to the possible use of their management for the entire cafeteria operation in the future.

"A meeting was held with all cafeteria lead ladies in the district to clarify the current status of the lunch program and to gain their input.

"Participants agreed to discuss ideas for improvement with the staff members and relay constructive comments to Cafeteria Director Overhuler. Written surveys also were conducted.

"Students in grades 4-7 were surveyed at every elementary and junior high school with respect to their food preferences, their opinion of the pizza tasted, and their suggestions and comments regarding general operations of the lunch program.

"Beginning in the 1980-81 year, administrators also met with student council representatives from South and North high schools for an exchange of ideas on improving the lunch program.

"This resulted in the installation of a salad bar at each high school, and the development of menus which have incorporated student suggestions. These meetings will be continued," Davis concluded.

"The Webelos Scouts of Pack 46, sponsored by the Nameski School PTA, held a fathers and son overnight fishing trip at Qales Twin Lakes near Edwardsville.

The adult Webelos leader was Don Lane.

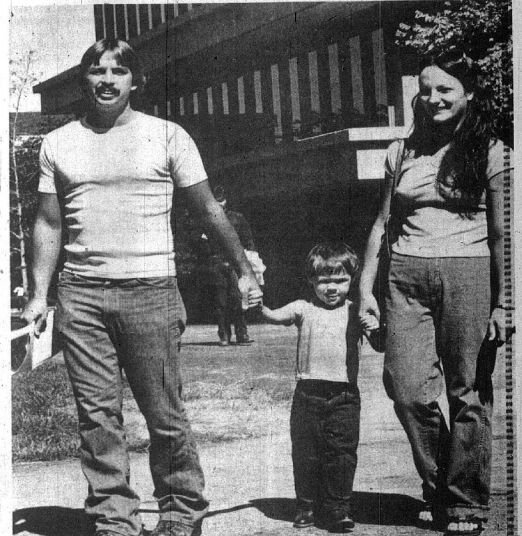

Attending were Roy Kotterha and son Greg, Randy Smith and Andy, Less Hall and Craig, Jim Choat and Brad, Mike Quillier and Mike and Lane and son Stephen.

Guests were John Stone and son Eric.

Den Chiefs from Boy Scout Troop 6 attending were Joe Basarich and David Lane.

2 CONDUCT CHARGES

Sessions which cover range management will include such topics as the role of instructors and administrators, selection, development and training of firearms instructors, analysis of firearms confrontation, and the development of firearms training programs.

During the four of the ammunition facility, participants will have the opportunity to observe center-fire pistol revolver cases being processed from a small cup to a loaded cartridge, including case, primer and bullet manufacturing and loading.

The visit to Winchester Western will provide participants with a better understanding of the numerous operations required to produce one cartridge.

Granite schools active in 'Art Week' programs

October 3 through 11 is proclaimed Art Week by Governor Thompson of Illinois and is sponsored by the Illinois Arts Council.

The elementary schools of Granite City will be participating in this program. Art Week was created in 1978 as a means of celebrating the scope of arts activity in Illinois.

The focus on the local level was the broad appeal, making the public more aware of the commitment and activity of the arts community.

More important, however, is the opportunity the program offers for increased communications between arts organizations and interested individuals, artists and the public.

The momentum has continued. Each year Illinoisians have celebrated their arts heritage in all of the fine arts.

This is the first year Granite City PTA has participated in the Fine Arts Week sponsored by the Arts Council of Illinois. Art Week has the same theme as the Illinois PTA, "Reflections" program: "What makes me smile."

Each school has a bulletin board in the building to decorate each month for Fine Arts. There are large posters in each school advertising Arts Week in the schools. There are also more posters put up throughout the community to remind the children and parents that Fine Arts is a special part of life and the environment.

Nancy Evans from Chicago is chairman for Governor James Thompson. She visited with the local Area Council President Phyllis Gorrell and Art Committee in August. This was to help promote "Arts Week."

Area Council PTA has a traveling trophy that has been named "Oscar" and will be awarded to the school with the best bulletin board each month.

"Oscar" will move around each month and come to rest at the end of the school year with the school that has won "Oscar" the most times.

"In having a cultural arts program in the schools, it is hoped to promote all the arts which will particularly include literature, art and music."

This could also include dance and theater. We want to focus on arts in our schools and make the public and parents aware of our children's talents that they will provide a richness that many have not known existed," June Nightwine Branding, cultural arts chairman said.

Alter entrance for liquor store

A new package liquor store will open soon on the corner of Namekoff Road and St. Clair Avenue, next to Charlie's Restaurant, Dennis Meyers, who will operate the facility, told the Granite City Council Tuesday night.

Meyers asked for permission to block the present curb entrance off of St. Clair Avenue and widen the alley entrance now used as an entrance to Charlie's.

Permission was granted under the supervision of the city engineer and superintendent of streets, with the stipulation that Meyers replace the curb and gutter at the entrance being blocked off.

Two injured at 22nd and Adams

An accident at 1:50 p.m. Tuesday at Adams and 22nd streets resulted in injuries to Edwin W. Meyerling, 2318 Edison Ave., and a passenger in his vehicle, Mrs. Freda Meyerling of the same address.

Meyerling, 81, who was eastbound on 22nd Street, told police he may have stepped on the car accelerator instead of the brake, causing his vehicle to travel through the intersection, veer to the left and over the curb.

At this point the Meyerling auto struck a vehicle belonging to Jon Null, 3036 Edgewood Ave., which was parked on Adams, about 25 feet north of 22nd Street.

The impact pushed the Null auto into the yard at 220 Adams, where it struck a lawn ornament.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Meyerling, reportedly sustained injuries.

ROBERT W. STEVENS
City Clerk
No. 63 33-10 8

On a voice vote, the council approved a motion by Alderman Carl Kittel of the Third Ward to refer the resolutions to the ordinance committee.

Immediately after that action was taken, however, Whitmer stated, "Tonight we should take a stand on this. It will be two weeks before this council has another meeting. I don't think we should leave this man (Woodrome) standing," Whitmer stated.

Kittel then made a motion "not to consider" the resolutions, which was seconded by Paul Ray Bowler, who said he wanted to "throw out" the resolutions.

Alderman Everett "Cherry" Morlen of the First Ward was the only alderman to vote against rejecting the resolution.

A similar stance resolve to implement the city sales tax without alterations was shown when a letter from the Tri-City Area Chamber of Commerce asking the council to consider amending the tax was read.

The letter, signed by E.A. "Drew" Karandjeff, president, on behalf of all of the Chamber's officers, said that the Chamber appreciates the problems the city faces in funding city operations in a time of rising costs and opposition to "taxes levied against an already heavily-taxed citizenry."

"While we do acknowledge these problems and reluctantly accept the one percent sales tax as law, we would hope that you would seriously consider amending the provisions of the tax to a lesser rate of one percent or less per dollar volume, low margin basis and businesses which sell big ticket items. Most of these businesses work on a high dollar volume, low margin basis and adding a full one percent to their cost of doing business.

"The net effect could be to make them marginally profitable or uncompetitive with those in competing businesses in the areas surrounding Granite City who have not imposed such a sales tax."

"The net effect could be to drive these businesses out of town, which would lower our overall tax base and create even higher unemployment than we now experience," the letter contended.

"Additionally," it continued, "we would lose the one percent sales tax which we are now collecting on those businesses (the Retailer Occupation Tax collected by the state and reimbursed to the city). While I know this is not the aim of the sales tax, it could be the result, and since the projected income from the sales tax is roughly five times the projected (budget) deficit, we feel there is real room to consider softening the blow through implementing a cap."

"Finally, we hope that this tax will be a temporary measure only and that income generated will not cause you, our elected officials, to stop continually looking for efficiencies and savings in the operation of our city. Thank you for your consideration," Karandjeff concluded.

After the letter was read, Mayor Schuler suggested that it be placed on file and the aldermen agreed on a voice vote.

Woodrome is contending that the tax must be repealed if Granite City businesses are to survive. "You are not going to see it overnight, except for the car dealers where it will be overnight, but people's shopping habits are going to change. They are going to get used to driving to Jamestown Mall or Edwardsville, or somewhere else outside of the city to purchase their televisions and other items," he said in a Press-Record interview Wednesday.

"Imagine the difference it will make on a grocery bill to shop outside of the city every week," Woodrome said.

He contended that if the city does succeed in collecting the one percent supplemental sales tax, "it is not going to raise that much, because they are not going to have the sales. It's counterproductive," he stated.

Woodrome said he is not alone in his opposition to the sales tax. Some of the largest retail stores in the city are re-evaluating their position and are considering moving outside of the city limits, he contends. Another major business is "on the fence now and this could push it over," he reported. Three service stations contacted reported they were breaking even," he noted and said he felt adding nearly 14 cents to the price of each gallon of gasoline could put motorists in the habit of purchasing their gas outside of the city limits.

The tax also is progressive in that when the price of a car rises $1,000, the tax will increase $10. "It just keeps going up and up. I don't have the answer, but I know the sales tax is not it," Woodrome said.

He noted that the retailers have several options open to them, but the first, to ask the city council to rescind the tax, has failed. Next, attempts will be made to convince the public of the counter-productive effects of the new tax and ask the citizens to contact their aldermen.

The possibility of a lawsuit to try and stop the city from collecting the tax also looms in the background and discussions with attorneys are underway, Woodrome stated.

City Council

Varadani of the Fifth Ward, they amended the new zoning map to change the zoning between 18th Street, Madison Avenue, Cleveland Boulevard and the Granite City-Madison border from C-2 commercial to R-3 residential.

Existing businesses in that area will be allowed to remain under non-conforming use provisions, but they would have to get council permission for any expansions. Included in the area is the former Tri-City Grocery warehouse which now is being used as part of the Tri-City Regional Port District's Foreign Trade Zone 31.

Prior to giving final passage to the zoning ordinance, the aldermen gave permission to two city residents to speak against commercial zoning for portions of Madison Avenue and Johnson Road.

Lloyd Bailey took exception with a survey done by realtors which showed a preference by Madison Avenue residents for commercial zoning in those blocks between 26th Street and Namekoff Road.

Bailey said he personally contacted 137 families between 24th Street and Namekoff Road and found that 124 of those wanted the street to remain residential, nine were neutral in their feelings and only four wanted commercial zoning. He contended that the realtors asked if people would prefer their houses be zoned commercial if it would increase the property value by $6,000 to $8,000, and disagreed with that contention. "I that issue with that. I think it would be worth $6,000 to $8,000 less, not more," Bailey contended.

He also said he checked the shopping centers, the downtown area and existing Madison Avenue commercial areas and found 30 commercial buildings seeking renters. There is no need to rezone residential areas for commercial use when there is vacant commercial property available, he contended.

Fred Cunningham, whose home abuts Johnson Road properties, also disagreed with the realtors' survey, saying that he only had time to contact 18 Johnson Road families and found that 17 wanted the property to remain residential. Of those Cunningham talked to, only three had been contacted during the realtors' survey, Cunningham contended. "I think their survey is incorrect," he concluded.

The speeches were probably unnecessary, since the council had unanimously voted two weeks ago to put the zoning ordinance on first reading and unanimously gave it final approval Tuesday night.

Mayor Paul Schuler concluded after the final vote, "Obviously, everything in it is not perfect. There are going to have to be a few changes. The Plan Commission has done a superb job and they are to be congratulated."

"This is a terrific step forward and we have been working on it for several years," the mayor concluded.

Alderman Sam Whitmer of the Second Ward referred to comments made by a realtor during the debate on the proposed ordinance that the city is opening the door to potential abuse by aldermen who could demand favors in return for their votes on zoning matters. The realtor alleged that such laws have been violated in the past and said that the facts will be brought out in the future, if necessary.

"The future is now," Whitmer said, adding, "If he has anything about any of these people on this council or any other council doing anything illegal, bring it out now. If it is true, we will get rid of the people who do this."

Alderman Paul Fink of the Third Ward agreed, saying that the realtor should be urged to take his allegations to the Madison County state's attorney, if the allegations are substantiated.

Three Lions Clubs to sell candy Friday

The three Quad-Cities Lions Clubs will be on the streets, at the banks, and just about everywhere Friday, giving away candy for a donation to help others.

The Granite City Lions have set a two-day (Friday and Saturday) goal of $3,500; the Pontoon Beach Lions will attempt to earn $1,500 and the Madison Lions $2,000, both in one day drives on Friday.

The state wide goal is $1.2 million.

There are 33,000 Lions in 678 clubs in Illinois. Rolls upon rolls upon rolls of mint and fruit-flavored candy will be given away on street corners, in shopping centers, at transportation facilities, and at other public areas throughout the state.

Funds from Candy Day are used locally by clubs for service projects involving the blind or deaf. Statewide, clubs channel funds through the Lions of Illinois Foundation, 1515 N. Harlem Ave., the charitable arm of the state's Lions Clubs, for a variety of programs benefiting the blind and deaf.

These include glaucoma and hearing screenings for adults. Camp Lions for children with vision or hearing handicaps, an eye donor registry, used eyeglasses and hearing aid collections, and a program of social services and referral.

Under this program, everything from information to red tape cutting to direct services is provided. Information includes help finding rehabilitation services or mobility training, or finding a dog guide school, or learning about eye diseases and problems. Cutting red tape involves helping blind or deaf individuals get needed services from the appropriate agencies. Direct services includes helping blind or deaf persons without necessary financial resources to obtain such items as white canes, brailers, tape recorders, and other items.

Candy Day is an important effort to make inroads into blindness and deafness. More than 700,000 Americans are legally blind, and more than 2,000,000 Americans are totally deaf.

A third use of the funds is for grants to Lion-approved agencies. In past years, recipients have included Hadley School for the Blind, Leader Dogs for the Blind, Dialogue With The Blind, low vision programs at Illinois College of Optometry, and eye research at the University of Illinois at the Medical Center.

Foundation reports record number of scholarships

A special meeting of the Granite City Scholarship Foundation was held in the principal's office at Granite City High School South. The following members were present:

Mary Frances Lynch, Business & Professional Women's Club; Robert Robles, Mexican Honorary Commission; Bob Maxwell, Granite City Steel; Charles King, Granite City Steel; Norman Garrett, Granite City Torch Club; Bill Bright, American Steel Foundries; Steve Ortiz, Granite City Jaycees; Paul Mills, Prairie Farms.

President Norman Garrett said he was happy to report that a total of 19 scholarships were awarded last year, which included 11 students at Granite City North and eight at Granite City South.

He said this was the most given out in a few years and he was happy with that figure based on the economy. He said that Bob Maxwell, who had worked as treasurer during the past couple of years was extremely busy at this point and that we would have to give him as much help as possible in order to continue these functions. Garrett discussed the various functions of each committee and the work that must be done in the upcoming year. He explained that applications would be delivered to high schools at the end of March and that Mr. Bridenbach from North would take care of them at that school and Mrs. Evans would handle the distribution of the applications at Granite City South.

Garrett pointed out that all of the scholarships that could have been awarded were awarded this past spring.

Garrett said that he and Bright had decided the following state of officers: President, Charles King; vice president, Bill Bright; treasurer, Robert Maxwell. He added that they had no one to fill the secretary's post at this time, but they would have someone in the near future. He explained that he would be happy to handle this job until such time as they could find a person to fill the job as secretary.

WAITRESS ARRESTED Cynthia Loman, 27, Granite City, a waitress at Fletcher's Deli and Pub in Collinsville, was among five persons arrested last week when Collinsville police entered and alleged finding two 19-year-olds drinking alcoholic beverages. She, the bartender, Lawrence Bennett, 26, Collinsville, and another waitress, Nikki Morris, 20, Collinsville, were charged with unlawful sale of alcohol to minors. Two customers, Randall Indermark and Cary Davis, both 19 years old, were charged with illegal possession of alcohol.

RAINBOW OF PROMISE 81-82, a Lutheran Youth Encounter's international team to India and Nepal will present a special informal program for the public at Hope Lutheran Church, 3715 Wabash Ave. The performance will begin at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 11, according to the Rev. David Fielding, host pastor. Print row from left, Barbara Wild, Dee Dee Tween, Goen Enright. Back row: Dan Schneek, Dugie Tween and Mary Hennis. During the three months prior to their departure in December, they will visit 60 congregations who become partners in this ministry. Upon their return in May of 1982, the team will revisit the supporting congregations to share their experiences.

Facts about language

Problems of subject-verb and pronoun-antecedent agreement continue to flourish, to the point that William Safire, in his annual Boopie Awards for the advertising industry, has begun bestowing Freedom-From-Agreement Laurels. First place went to the Pan American World Airways for "Here's four ways to tour a great country. Britain." Safire's comment: "And here are one way to punctuate. Badly."

"Here," like "there," has no fixed number that can determine whether the verb that follows it should be a singular or plural. It is what follows the verb that makes the determination, and in speech we are likely to make mistakes simply because we may serve up a singular verb before we realize that we want to talk about a plural subject. No such excuse exists for the writer, who has time to sort things out.

Runner-up laurels went to the Longines-Wittnauer Watch Co. for "Someone close to you is hoping for a Longines. Don't disappoint them." The copywriter couldn't use only "him" or "her" in the second sentence because Longines wants to sell watches for both him and hers. Nor could the writer very well make the first sentence plural—"Those close to you..."—because not many people could be persuaded to buy several Longines. They aren't exactly stocking stuffers.

The most obvious solution would have been "Don't disappoint him or her," but apparently that sounded too stiffly correct, too noticeably grammatical.

And so the ad writer reached for "them" as a compromise and fell flat on their backs. It is to say, his or her, fanny.

Task force to study concept of enterprise zones in state

Governor James R. Thompson has appointed a task force to study the concept of enterprise zones and draft legislation for the winter session of the legislature.

"We are doing everything that we can to stimulate our economy and to encourage business and job development. I believe enterprise zones can help do this, especially in economically distressed areas," the Governor said. Under the enterprise zone concept, businesses in areas of the state that are declared economically distressed would be eligible for financial incentives such as income, sales and property tax relief.

However, the governor warned that such a program must be controlled, tested and well defined in order to accomplish the goal of a stimulating economy. Also, the governor said that such a program should be in tune with a new national enterprise zone proposal that is expected soon from the White House.

"I believe strongly in the concept of enterprise zones," the governor said, "and I am counting on this task force to come forth with the best possible plan for all the citizens of Illinois. They will work closely with advocates of the concept not only in Illinois but in Washington and throughout the nation in preparing a workable plan for Illinois."

The governor said that he had to veto legislation passed by the last session of the General Assembly for many technical reasons. The governor said the bill was technically flawed and for all practical purposes unworkable. Serious constitutional questions were also raised. He said the task force would work closely with the bill's S.B. (819) sponsors in preparing a new proposal.

Named to the task force are:

Eric Canada, Chicago, State Chamber of Commerce.
Janet Malone, Chicago, TRUST, Inc.
Orville Bergen, Chicago, Illinois Manufacturers Association.
Richard K. Rothchild, Chicago, Illinois Retail

Merchants Association.
Rich Walsh, Chicago, AFL-CIO.
Robert Mier, Champaign, University of Illinois.
Robert L. Graham, Chicago, Chicago Council of Lawyers.

James E. Mann, Chicago, Metropolitan Housing and Planning Council.
Elmer W. Walton, Decatur, Municipal League.
Mike Boer, Collinsville, Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Planning Commission.

1 Corinthians 3:11... "For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

We can be very thankful to God that He has made Christ the foundation of our faith. There is none other name given under Heaven, whereby men must be saved, but the name of Jesus Christ said himself, "I am the way, the truth, and the life, and no man can come to the Father but by me."

There has been and will continue to be great men of God. Their labors for God have changed the world. We honor them, acknowledge them, build monuments to them. This is good, it is proper. However, let us not forget that all our heroes of faith have had the same foundation, Jesus Christ. All great men of faith owe their life to the Savior and Lord.

Paul the Apostle said: "We preach Christ crucified."

Percy urges preparing for energy crisis

Senator Charles H. Percy has just released a report prepared by the General Accounting Office which found that the U.S. government remains "almost totally unprepared" to deal with oil import disruptions such as the 1973 oil embargo and the 1979 Iranian shortfall.

The two-volume GAO report was prepared at the request of Percy, chairman of the Senate Government Affairs Subcommittee on Energy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, former chairman of the energy subcommittee of the Joint Economic Committee.

"The lack of effective contingency planning and program development to date is serious and requires immediate attention."

"This report focuses on an issue which I consider to be crucial but often neglected," Percy said.

"Unless we are better prepared than we have been in the past, future energy shortages will have devastating effects on our country, with prices doubling or tripling overnight. Such a crisis could play havoc with a successful economic recovery."

The study concludes that, given the present slack oil market, "the government would be short-sighted if it missed this opportunity to develop an effective oil emergency preparedness program."

Percy, who earlier this year chaired hearings on the nation's ability to deal with energy supply disruptions, is a sponsor of the Energy Preparedness Act of 1981. The bill is designed to reduce economic dislocations and individual hardships that might arise in a shortage situation.

"This report underscores the urgent need to give energy emergency preparedness a high priority," Percy said. "The longer we wait, the more costly it will be for our nation to lack of readiness."

Injured in crash

Brenda Grace, 21, Granite City, was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center by a Collinsville Fire Department ambulance following a two-car crash last week on Route 157 at Collinsville Road.

She was a passenger in the auto of Jimmie Grace, 24, Granite City, who told Collinsville police that his car was stopped in the inside, southbound lane on Route 157 behind another vehicle preparing to turn left onto the Collinsville Road exit. Police said a car driven by George Higgins, 74, Caseyville, struck the rear of the Grace vehicle, then went over an embankment after hitting a utility pole.

Higgins also was injured, but declined immediate medical treatment. Higgins was ticketed for driving while intoxicated and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.

Campaign against high interest rates

Three area trade associations on Monday announced their participation in a nationwide "Unlock the Economy" campaign calling on the president and Congress to "adopt an economic policy that will lead to lower interest rates and accommodate economic growth and stability in housing and other credit-sensitive industries."

The Home Builders Association of Greater St. Louis, the Real Estate Board of Metropolitan St. Louis and the Greater St. Louis Automotive Association held a press conference. Many Realtors, auto dealers and home builders brought keys and messages to their congressmen to signify concern over high interest rates. The keys and messages were collected and delivered personally to congressmen in Washington on Tuesday to demonstrate the urgency of the call for action.

Coalition spokesmen held a national press conference at the Capital Hilton, testified in hearings before the Congressional committee on interest rates, and met with administration officials.

To bring interest rates down as rapidly as possible, participants in the "Unlock the Economy" effort are urging a three-pronged approach in which the federal government would be asked to:

- 1. To seek a bill in fiscal 1982 and a bill in fiscal 1984; the Federal Reserve Board would be asked to increase at the high end of its monetary target; and the next vacancy on the Federal Reserve Board would be filled by a representative from small-business.

Joseph Mason, president of the HBA, said that high mortgage interest rates have priced more than 90 percent of U.S. households out of the market for a modestly priced home.

"The present danger," Mason cautioned, "is that continued strong borrowing in the credit markets by the federal government—to finance a deficit approaching $1 trillion—will drive millions of young Americans of the credit they need to buy homes."

"The federal government is already heading toward an estimated 30 percent share of the nation's available credit."

Thomas Bayer, president of the Real Estate Board, said, "Unless that trend is reversed, credit demand and interest rates will remain at record levels, and inflation will continue for the foreseeable future."

"The same high interest rates which are plaguing the home building and real estate industries are adversely affecting the automobile industry and thousands of small businesses. The automotive industry is heading for a crisis of major proportions," according to Donald Gilbert, executive vice-president of the AAA.

Mason said, "Working people are tired of funding pet projects of their congressmen. Last November, produced a mandate for change, and people are tired of the budget being used as a political football."

All three associations are encouraging the general public to send keys—any keys—and messages to their congressmen.

Central Christian retires mortgage

By VALERIE EVENEDEN
of the Press-Record

Central Christian Church, one of the oldest churches in the Quad-Cities, will celebrate its mortgage retirement during worship services at 10:45 a.m. Sunday.

Located since 1956 at 2020 Johnson Road, the church originated from a tent meeting beneath the Merchant's Bridge in Venice, where the first service was held in 1901. The present church complex includes the original educational building, dedicated on June 17, 1956, and the newer sanctuary, dedicated in 1966.

Situated on spacious grounds, the church property currently is valued at close to $1 million.

The Rev. Dennis Rutledge, who has been pastor of Central Christian for the past six years, will lead Sunday's mortgage retirement celebration.

Several distinguished guests will participate in the program, including the Rev. James Craddock, minister at the church from 1957 to 1970 during which time the planning and construction of the sanctuary building occurred.

Rev. Craddock presently is pastor of Augusta Christian Church in Indianapolis, Ind.

The Rev. Norman Cullumber, minister for the Disciple Council of the Greater St. Louis Area, will lead the congregational prayer Sunday.

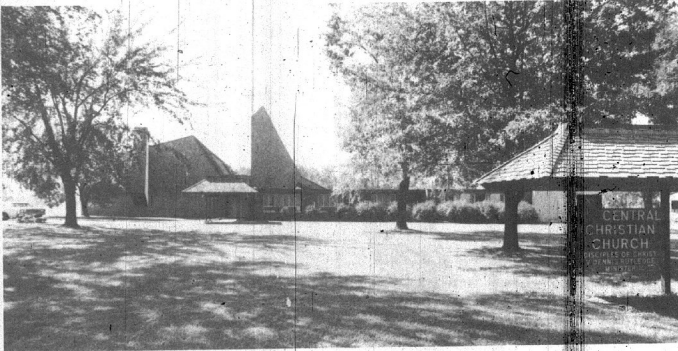

In the celebration of mortgage retirement segment, scenes from the past will be featured, including a series of 41 slides showing the church's historical past, together with selected statements by individuals.

The slides were compiled from the time the congregation met in a basement area of the old church and continue through the construction of the present edifice.

The photographic sequences also record various special events at the church.

"A Litany of Faithfulness" and a prayer of thanksgiving and dedication will be offered by Rev. Rutledge and Roger Gruen.

The latter, a former member of the local

The Rev. Craddock will deliver the message, "Your Joy Is Your Strength."

The Rev. Elbert Starn of Columbia, Mo., a retired St. Louis area minister, will offer the prayer of thanksgiving and commitment.

Another segment of the program will focus upon the topic, "Completing the Journey," and will include presentations by Pastors Craddock, Rutledge, Cullumber and Starn.

Richard Yates, chairman of the Central Christian Church Council, and Murel Spengler, former chairman of the church Building Plans Committee, also will take part.

Organist Cindy Johnson will perform "The Chimes of Reverent Silence" and the Organ Prelude.

The Sanctuary Choir, under the direction of Joseph Hanson, will sing the processional, "Congregation Arise," and "Faith Is a Journey," both by Walter W. Shurr.

Russell Harrison, a former member of Central Christian and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan

Harrison of Granite City, will read the Scriptures.

He is the current treasurer of the Division of Homeland Ministries of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Recognition will be accorded Helen Gilbert Stumpe, a church elder and a former missionary to the Democratic Republic of the Congo.

Mrs. Stumpe was the first person to be ordained into the Christian ministry at Central Christian Church.

In another aspect of Sunday's program, Edward Lurton, treasurer of the congregation at the time of the building dedication, will review the origin of the current debt up to the present time.

After the initial gathering of the denomination under the Merchant's Bridge in 1901, the congregation began holding services the following year at members' homes in North Venice.

The group also met in a school building in South Madison, but soon afterward agreed to establish a definite place of worship in Rosenberg Hall, then located at 19th and State streets in Granite City.

Facilities also were rented for a period of time and dedicated 10 years later. The church property currently is valued close to $1 million. The Rev. James Craddock of Indianapolis, Ind., former pastor during the planning and construction of the sanctuary, will be among the program participants.

In Priest Hall.

In 1906, the Niedringhaus trustees donated to the congregation a plot of ground at 22nd and State streets on which to erect a new church building.

Construction and dedication of the church were accomplished during the same year and the house of worship served the congregation for many years.

The late Rev. Mason Gregg was called to serve as pastor in 1940 and, six years later, a new tract of land was purchased at 24th Street and Edison Avenue for the purpose of building a larger facility.

Rev. Gregg remained as pastor for 17 years and Central Christian Church observed its 50th anniversary in October 1961.

The congregation continued to expand and a new ground site on Johnson Road was purchased in 1955. The groundbreaking ceremony was held Sept. 11 of that year.

The sanctuary of the present church was dedicated June 19, 1966. John Gordon, chairman of the Mortgage Retirement Celebration Committee, said all church members, former members and friends are invited to attend Sunday's celebration.

Mark 'Respect Life' week

Catholic health care facilities are observing Respect Life Week Oct. 4-10. The 10th annual Respect Life Week is sponsored by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops (NCCB), supported by the Catholic Health Association of the United States (CHA).

Respect Life activities were initiated in 1971 by the NCCB Committee for Pro-Life Activities in response to Pope Paul VI's Call to Action, urging Christian organizations to express through collective action the "concrete demands of the Christian faith for a just, and consequently necessary transformation of society."

Respect Life activities traditionally focus on the sanctity of human life and the threats to human life including war, violence, hunger and poverty. Specific areas targeted by the NCCB this year include: the Human Life Amendment, the handicapped, the nuclear arms race, natural family planning, and reconciliation for women following abortion.

The CHA, headquartered in St. Louis, annually supports the observance, focusing on the special dimension of patient care that develops through a blend of faith and medicine.

Almost 900 Catholic-sponsored hospitals and long-term care facilities nationwide are CHA members. CHA's facilities account for almost 30 percent of the nation's community hospital beds and treat more than six million patients a year.

Dale Rea will retire next June

Dale C. Rea, assistant to the superintendent of Granite City public schools, announced plans Tuesday night to retire at the end of the current school year June 30, 1982. His duties have included insurance planning and coordination of federal grant programs.

Rea, whose plans were approved with regret by the Board of Education, said, "I am submitting my letter at this time so that any steps necessitated by this action may be taken without hesitation and with minimal disturbance of district operations."

He voiced appreciation to "those many people on the staff and in the community with whom I have worked, who have contributed so much to the development of the educational system. I hope I will continue to enjoy in my retirement the many friendships developed in my 28 years in the district."

Retiring at the end of this month will be Mary Merz, a matron at Granite City High School North, and retiring Nov. 20 will be Permelia Wallis, a matron at Granite City High School South.

The former has been associated with the school system for 30 years, including 27 years as cook at Stallings School and the past three years as matron at North. The latter has worked for the school district for 22 years.

Two other retirements will take effect Nov. 1. Vanna Berkbigler is leaving the Lake School cafeteria staff after 17 years as a Granite City school cafeteria employee, and Virginia Owens is retiring as a GCHS North matron after more than 27 years in the school system, including cafeteria service. Leaves of absence due to personal illness were granted to Alissa Ann Bossett, Grigby Junior High School teacher for learning disabilities, and Kathleen Cochran, Maryville School lower primary teacher.

Ceremonies honor port as 'lifeline of our region'

Port Week opened Monday and is continuing through Saturday with special activities, including open house at the Tri-City Regional Port and Locks 27 tomorrow and Saturday. Monday's activities included a ride for local dignitaries on the tugboat "Senator Sam" to the middle of the Mississippi River where Illinois Senator Sam Vadalabene and Missouri Lt. Gov. Kenneth J. Rothman exchanged proclamations declaring Port of Metropolitan St. Louis Week.

Photos, clockwise from the top left show Sen. Vadalabene at the controls of the "Senator Sam," Vadalabene actually piloted the boat from the Tri-City dock through the locks and to the middle of the river. In the second photo, Lt. Gov. Rothman reads the Missouri proclamation during the ceremonies on the barge in the middle of the river while Vadalabene and John Poelker, interim executive director of the Bi-State Development Agency, look on. At the bottom right, Vadalabene, Poelker and Lt. Gov. Rothman pledge continued cooperation by the two states for future port development in the region. In the final picture, Vadalabene is presented with an honorary river-pilot license by Capt. Tandy Tannos, captain of the Port of St. Louis for the U.S. Corps of Engineers.

Percy to chair hearing on commodity exports

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) has announced that he will chair a U.S. Senate Subcommittee field hearing in Urbana to investigate mounting threats to restrict U.S. commodity exports to Europe. The hearing will be held on Friday, Oct. 16, from 8:30 to 11:45 a.m. at the Levis Faculty Center, 919 W. Illinois Avenue, Urbana, Ill.

"Illinois is the largest agricultural exporter in the U.S.," Percy said. "And I know that many Illinois producers and processors could be financially injured if the Europeans curtail imports of soybeans and corn gluten feed in an attempt to protect their own heavily-subsidized producers," Percy said.

The hearing has been scheduled in response to a number of recent developments which threaten to curtail the $3.9 billion annual U.S. exports of soybeans and co-products to Europe.

A recent recommendation by a three-member General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) panel upheld the right of the Government of Spain to restrict the marketing of soybean oil crushed from imported soybeans. The U.S. Trade Representative believes that the Spanish restriction violates the GATT agreement and has asked GATT Council of Ministers to review the panel's recommendation at its November 3, 1981 meeting in Geneva.

The European Economic Community (EEC) has recently threatened to impose a levy on corn gluten feed and other protein feed ingredients imported into the EEC. The total value of U.S. export trade in non-grain feeds is valued at $600-700 million annually.

"The EEC may place a corn gluten tax on edible marine and vegetable fats and oils, including soybean oil. The U.S. believes that the tax would nullify the current zero tariff on soybeans and soybean meal."

"The EEC's use of commodity export subsidies in Europe is presenting a threat to important U.S. export markets in Latin America and China."

"I am deeply concerned by these actions," Percy said. "Because of my commitment to liberal trade policies, I feel we must preclude any need for retaliatory actions which would prove counterproductive. We must contain this problem before it gets out of hand," Percy said.

In calling for the hearing, Percy, Chairman of the Government Affairs Subcommittee on Energy, Nuclear Proliferation, and Government Processes, said, "this subcommittee has a mandated role to review the U.S. relationship with international organizations such as GAT."

Representing Department of Agriculture Secretary John Block, who will be in China at the time of hearing, will be Thomas A. Hammer, Deputy Undersecretary for International Affairs and Commodity Programs.

Assistant U.S. Trade Representative Donald M. Nelson, who has handled the GATT case, will also testify.

Fire prevention tips and antique fire fighting equipment will be on the next "Coffee Break with Gregg McGee" television program. Firemen from Grant Fork, Highland, Troy, and Collinsville will show equipment that their fire companies have donated to the Madison County Fireman Association.

The oldest piece of equipment presented will be a 1896 pumper once used by the Grant Fork Fire Department. The program will be shown on Southwestern Cable Television Channel 1 at 10:30 a.m., Oct. 12, 14, 16, and at 6 p.m. on Oct. 14.

Small business benefits from legislative session

Small business came out of Illinois' legislative session in good shape, according to the state's largest small-business group. The National Federation of Independent Business, which has an audited membership of more than 17,000 in Illinois, commended both the General Assembly and the governor for passing legislation that will specifically aid owners of small companies, who are especially hard hit now by inflation and the credit crunch.

Small business's greatest reason to rejoice comes from the newly implemented Regulatory Flexibility bill, said Mike Donahue, director of governmental relations for NFIB-Ill. This legislation, sponsored by Prescott Bloor (R-Peoria), requires state agencies to investigate the impact of a proposed regulation on small businesses before they can put it on the books.

Donahue said, "This law recognizes that in many cases, regulations should not be applied to everyone in the same way. A proposed regulation may be perfectly reasonable for a big business, but when a small-business owner attempts to comply, the cost puts him out of business."

The bill will allow agencies to provide alternative methods of compliance for small businesses (having fewer than 50 employees or gross sales of less than $4 million) or to exempt small firms from the regulation altogether.

Governor Thompson also signed into law several other bills that will improve the business climate in Illinois, including an unemployment insurance package, an investment tax credit, and a bill to help stop bad-check writing.

Unemployment Insurance (UI): According to Donahue, this bill, which becomes effective Jan. 3, 1982, reforms sections of the law that have plagued the small-business owner for years. Relief came in two areas: (1) Employees who voluntarily quit without good cause, are terminated for misconduct, or refuse "suitable" alternative work will no longer be eligible to collect unemployment benefits; (2) Unemployed workers who are eligible will not be able to collect benefits for the first week they are unemployed, regardless of the length of time they are out of work.

The small-business owner can expect these changes to relieve some of the burdensome cost of unemployment compensation, although it won't reimburse them for the thousands of dollars they have already involuntarily dishied out because of previously overgenerous lawmakers," Donahue emphasized.

These and other changes were needed to help bring solvency to the state's unemployment insurance system, which is in debt to the federal Unemployment Insurance Trust fund to the tune of $1.4 billion. The changes in this session's package alone are expected to save the state fund $236.5 million by the end of 1982.

The package was passed after intense negotiations between organized labor and business representatives. Governor Thompson called the UI agreement "an equitable compromise in which both labor and business have made significant sacrifices..."

Investment Tax Credit: This law will allow manufacturing, mining, and retail corporations a tax credit of five-tenths of a percent for investing in certain tangible properties after June 1, 1983. Eligible property includes such things as fixtures, land, vehicles and structural components of buildings.

After July 1, 1985, an additional credit of five-tenths of a percent will be added if the employer increases the number of employees by at least one percent.

Legislation to reduce bad-check writing: This law, effective Jan. 1, 1982, will require institutions issuing checks to code personal checks with the month and year the account was opened. Checks issued for new accounts must start with the number "101." These changes are important, said Donahue, because approximately $400,000 of worthless checks are written every day in the U.S. and 40 percent of those are in the check-number sequence of 101 to 150 or come from accounts that are no more than six months old.

Several other small-business issues captured the attention of the legislature only to be vetoed by the governor or put on hold for another session because of fears of taking money away from the state coffers. The equal-access-to-justice legislation would have required the state to reimburse court costs and attorneys' fees to defendants who win in proceedings initiated by state agencies.

"Passage of this bill would have helped eliminate agency harassment or unnecessary lawsuits against small businesses," Donahue said. He disagreed with the governor's contention that the bill would have cost the state too much money.

"This bill would give agencies an incentive to carefully evaluate their regulatory activities and to prevent costly mistakes. It would eventually cut the overall cost of government by reducing the number of frivolous legal actions, and at the same time lift the burden from the individual citizen."

Donahue has called on the legislature to overturn the governor's veto during the October session.

Inheritance Tax: While little relief was offered this year, Donahue expects that a complete repeal of the state inheritance tax is imminent after this session. "Several repeal measures advanced to passage stage but were put on the back burner because of the fear of taking revenue away from the state," he said.

The governor proposed a phaseout of the tax in one of his transportation packages, but the political realities of the state budget kept the House leadership from ever calling the bill. It is just a matter of time before this moribund tax is repealed," he added.

In summarizing, Donahue noted that this session was a positive one but that the measures passed are only a "slice of the total pie needed to improve working conditions for the number one employer, producer, and innovator in Illinois," the small-business owner.

They also instructed the boys in the safe use of camp tools and the proper technique for building council fires.

The various patrols also participated in another hike in which the Scouts attempted to locate edible wild plants.

Echols elected

"Madison has a five percent tax and some of our people live in Venice but have a Madison mailing address. If they are overcharged on their bill in the utility tax they can take the bill to the utility company, such as the water company, and have a correction made. It will save them a few dollars, and we all know that every penny counts today, particularly for our elderly citizens."

A discussion was held on changing the name of Logan Street to honor the late Mr. Solo Banks.

The mayor said he had been getting a lot of "heat" not to change and wanted the aldermen to discuss it and make a decision.

Other aldermen said they also had received a negative reaction.

On a role call vote all aldermen voted not to change the street name.

Alderman Victor Valentine Sr. first voted in favor of the name change, but then said after seeing all the other aldermen voting against the name change said, "I'd like to change may vote and call it unanimous."

Mayor Echols said, "It was a very gracious thought as the man was very well-liked and respected."

To change the name, then asked if there was anything that could be done to fix the grading system at Market Street and the railroad crossing.

"This becomes a real problem for the people who use that crossing and it does have a lot of traffic. They (railroad workers) shut it down about three times a year and try to fix it."

"The railroad once said it was going to put steel in, but I don't think they ever did it."

"Winter is coming and those holes get bad."

Mayor Echols asked City Clerk Dale Georger to write the railroad officials and see if the bill get moving on the repairs.

The McKinley bridge report for the month of September 1981 showed 330,000 vehicles crossing, averaging 11,411 a day, an average daily increase of 263 vehicles from September 1980.

A discussion was held on mobil homes in the city and possible future ones. The council unanimously stated that no permits would be issued until the concrete pad in the ground was actually poured, the down in place, and all specifications complied with.

The council further instructed the building inspector to set a deadline on existing mobil homes in regards to skirts around them and remedying any other non-compliance with the city code on mobil homes.

Mayor Echols told the council he had a sample ordinance and would give each one a copy to study that should help a great deal keeping the city from being so littered.

Hundreds on tours

Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Special guests Friday will be 36 representatives of the Japanese Feed Protein Study Team, who have been touring the United States since Sept. 30. They are expected approximately 2:30 p.m. tomorrow for a tour of the grain handling facilities. Japan is the largest importer of U.S. soybeans, having imported 148 million bushels in 1980.

Japan uses the soybeans for poultry and livestock production and about 20 percent is used directly in human food products.

Saturday, the Japanese visitors will visit the Gateway Arch and other attractions before leaving for Des Moines, Iowa Sunday. They will conclude their U.S. tour Oct. 16 in Honolulu, Hawaii, and return to Tokyo.

Persons taking advantage of the open house at the port will see special displays and have an opportunity to see ships locking through one of the world's busiest locks. At current river levels, the lock is lowering southbound boats about 16 feet per locking and

No charges were filed.

A resident of Granite City for the past 11 years, Mrs. Schreiber was born in Poland.

Lights malfunction, three persons hurt

Traffic lights malfunctioning at West Pontion Road and Missouri Avenue apparently contributed to a collision there at 11:20 a.m. Wednesday in which three persons were hurt.

There was damage to the front of the westbound auto of Dena M. Beaver, 76, of 3016 Namoli Drive and the right side of the northbound car of Dennis Reeves, 19, of the 2400 block of Delmar Avenue.

They suffered minor injuries, as did a passenger in the Reeves vehicle, Sharon Williams, 17, of 2424a Delmar Ave.

Granite City police notified the Illinois Department of Transportation that the lights were remaining green for Missouri Avenue traffic for long periods while allowing traffic to proceed on West Pontion for only about five seconds.

Mitchell Fire Station schedules open house

Fire Prevention Week will be observed Oct. 4-10 and the Mitchell Volunteer Fire Department is planning an open house Oct. 10 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. to conclude the week.

Demonstrations and films will be going on all day. Refreshments will also be served and the ladies auxiliary will hold a bazaar and bake sale during the open house.

The Mitchell Volunteer Fire Department was organized in 1945 with seven volunteers and on Dec. 10, 1949, a fire district was voted in. Al Paul, George Bugle and Joseph Trocicki were appointed district trustees. The current trustees are Art Larose, Goldie Barton and Gordon Routh.

There are 25 volunteer firemen who are each equipped with a monitor-pumper on which fire calls are transmitted. There are ten fire phones located throughout the Mitchell area. This insures that someone will always be there to answer the call.

The Mitchell fire protection district has a 1966 Ford pumper with a 1000-gallon water carry.

This pumper has a power plant with four quartz lights. Both water tanks have a chemical called "fire-out" which is designed to cool and eliminate fire, rekindle.

Also each pumper carries 10 gallons of foam for flammable liquid fires. The district also has a 1973 four-wheel-drive weed-pumper, which carries 300 gallons of water and a master stream, monitor, and a 1976 emergency-rescue vehicle, which carries 250 gallons of water and all the latest rescue equipment.

Some of the equipment on this vehicle includes the Hurst tool "Jaws of Life" used for access, Hurst-O Cutters, Hurst Rams (two sizes used for lifting and spreading) and rescue air bags for heavy lifting. A lot more of the basic rescue and first aid equipment is also included. This vehicle has a 15,000-watt power plant with six quartz lights and 30-gal. air compressor.

All vehicles are equipped with oxygen and self-contained breathing apparatus for fire and contaminated area entry and all are radio equipped.

To report a fire, call 931-1120 and for business and other questions, call 931-0161 on any Sunday between 7 a.m. to noon.

HAYRIDE AND PICNIC. Granite City Township hosted its annual hayride and picnic for senior citizens in Wilson Park last week and hundreds turned out to enjoy an evening of dancing, eating, socializing and riding in tractor-pulled haywagons. The event was hosted by Township Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer. Clockwise from the upper left, the photos show: Al Klarich, a bus driver for the senior citizens' van, cooking hot dogs for all to enjoy; seniors boarding a haywagon for a ride around the park; seniors finding a "seat" on hay bales inside the wagon; a chain dance, complete with the kick in unison; and dancing to live music inside one of the park pavilions.

Extending the tomato season

By CHRIS DOLL
Garden Adviser

The frosty morning of October 3 caused variable amounts of injury to local tomato plantings. Where the foliage and vines were severely frosted, growth has ended and salvage of green tomatoes is possible. This type of harvesting and storage is also suggested for partially frosted vines and just ahead of the next frost or freeze.

The largest fruits should be selected first. They should be solid, firm, green and free of defects. Pick and handle carefully to avoid injury. Wrap each fruit in an individual piece of newspaper and pack loosely in a carton or box. Store the box of tomatoes at 55 degrees to 60 degrees F. When needed for table use, ripen for 3 to 4 days at 70 degrees to 80 degrees F. temperatures.

Sort through the stored tomatoes to remove any that are deteriorating or those that show signs of ripening. This program will extend the tomato season somewhat with fruits that aren't as good as vine ripened, but are better than imports.

Orange pumpkins and colorful squash at roadside markets indicate that fall is here and it's time to pick pumpkins and squash and dig sweet potatoes for immediate use and for storage. Halloween pumpkins and summer squash have a fairly short storage life and in 1981 it may be much shorter due to the summer rains. All others should last longer if properly picked and handled.

Squash and pumpkins intended for storage should be harvested before they are damaged by the frost. The October 3rd frost may have damaged vines but fruits should be O.K. Pick them with stems attached and handle carefully to avoid cuts and bruises. This will aid in extending the storage life. Only mature, solid fruits should be saved for long term storage. Watch for disease and insects spots that might rot. Acorn squashes should be used first, as their storage life is not as long as butternuts, cushaws, and other varieties.

Store in a dry place where temperatures are about 55 degrees to 60 degrees F. Slatted shelves will permit ventilation and better storage conditions than piling them on the floor. Damp caves or cellars should not be used. Sweet potatoes can be dug now, or at least have the frozen vines cut off. When digging sweet potatoes for storage, remember that they are easily bruised and cut.

Handle carefully and as little as possible. If possible, put the potatoes in the storage container when harvesting. For storing, cure the freshly dug sweet potatoes by hanging them for about 10 days under humid conditions at 80 degrees F. A few more days of curing are needed if the temperatures are below 80 degrees F. A covering of paper or plastic will help maintain the humidity.

At the end of the curing period, move them to a cooler storage area that will maintain a 55 degree to 60 degree F. temperature. Do not store where the temperature goes below 50 degrees F. Outdoor pits are not recommended because the dampness encourages decay.

Find life without sunlight

By PROFESSOR F. HENRY FIRSCHING
SUIE School of Science & Engineering

Until about five or six years ago, there was little doubt in the minds of biologists that all the life forms present in the earth relied on solar energy for their existence.

However, this idea must now be modified because of a rather startling discovery that was made by geologists, who were studying an entirely different subject. They were investigating sea floor spreading, which involves the mid-oceanic ridges, where molten material comes from the interior of the earth and pushes off in both directions. This tends to cause the plates of the continents to spread apart.

A small submarine, called the Alvin, capable of going down to 8,000 feet, or 16 miles, into the abyssal depths of the ocean, was used in this study. At this depth, very little light reaches the ocean floor. Life is normally very sparse. As the bottom of the ocean is surveyed, occasionally some form of life, usually a scavenger, can be seen. What little life there is, in the abyssal depths, is based on material that drifts down from the upper levels of the sea.

As the Alvin was following one of these mid-oceanic ridges near the Galapagos Islands, a hot water vent was encountered. An incredible sight appeared. An abundant community of animal life clustered about the hot water vent. Clams, mussels, crabs, anemones, fishes, and some giant tube worms were seen. It was astounding! Eight thousand feet down, in the darkness, in a hot water area that contained sulfurous compounds, was teeming life. Nothing like this had ever been seen before!

Furthermore, additional searching, in the same general area, disclosed several other similar animal communities.

When the expedition ended, the geologists told the biologists about this exciting discovery. A team of very interested biologists joined the next expedition, in order to study this unusual animal community in detail. A variety of specimens representing almost all the life around these vents, was collected. The tube worms were the most unusual.

Specimens up to 4 1/2 feet long were collected. Others up to nine feet in length were seen from the submarine. Interestingly, they had no eyes, mouth, or gut. Or stated bluntly, they had no visible means of life support. They had no way of eating anything or digesting it. The big question was, "Where do they get their energy?"

About half the length of their bodies consisted of a section packed with bacteria. Roughly, four billion bacteria per gram were found there. These bacteria contained enzymes that can extract energy from sulfur compounds such as hydrogen sulfide. Apparently, the bacteria oxidize sulfur compounds and use the energy to synthesize organic compounds. This would account for the tube worms ability to function without any mouth or gut.

In addition to the large animals around the hot water vents, about 250 different bacterial forms were found in the hot waters. These bacteria also contained enzymes that can chemically derive energy from hydrogen sulfide. So it appears that this entire community, on the bottom of the deep ocean, is surviving by chemically converting the energy in hydrogen sulfide into making organic molecules. It is, indeed, a strange ecosystem.

This unusual life community has made the biologists, and all of us, reconsider our fundamental ideas about life. For an entire series of life forms does not depend on sunlight for its ultimate source of energy. Instead, they depend on the internal energy of the earth.

The interior of the earth became molten from the gravitational collapse of material that made up the earth, as well as heat from radioactive decay. Long half-life radioisotopes, such as those of thorium and uranium, are still releasing energy inside the earth. Volcanic activity is one manifestation of this energy source. And the warm water vents are volcanic in nature. This discovery has been one of the most interesting as well as startling, developments in recent biology. It certainly provides stimulation for thought, as well as an incentive for further exploration into the remote reaches of the world.

Ethnic, special studies conference set Oct. 14-17

The Society of Ethnic and Special Studies (SESS) will hold its ninth annual national conference Oct. 14-17 at Marriott's Pavilion Hotel in St. Louis, according to Emil Jason, president of the society.

Jason also is the associate vice president for special programs and minority affairs at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

This year's conference will be highlighted by two presentations by James Baldwin, internationally known author and playwright. Baldwin will not only be the keynote speaker on Friday evening, he will also visit the SUIE campus on Thursday evening to present "Defining the Black Aesthetic."

An impressive slate of more than 70 educators from colleges and universities, community service organizations, and science laboratories across the country will make up the conference programming. Speakers will examine current issues facing America's social situations—i.e., educating the black child, the outlook for minorities in the sciences during the '80s, affirmative action, and minority aging.

Conference workshops, panels and research reports will focus on the theme, "A Rededication to Quality Education." Registration for the three-day conference is $75, which covers admission to presentations on all three days, a reception on Wednesday, and the banquet on Friday. On-site registration will be conducted from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day.

The Society's executive board meeting will officially open the conference at noon on Wednesday, Oct. 14, with the opening general session scheduled for 4 p.m. Jason will give the opening address. A conference reception will follow the opening session. Keynote speaker for Thursday morning's general session will be Dickson Mungazi, professor of international education at Colgate University. The subject of his speech will be "Education for Minorities: A Search for Identity."

At the banquet on Friday, Baldwin will discuss "Black Literature and the Challenges of the '80s."

Enchilada night at MHC Club

Plans for "Enchilada Night" were finalized at last week's meeting of the Mexican Honorary Commission Women's Auxiliary. The special event will take place Friday, Oct. 30, at the MHC Hall, 1801 Spruce St., starting at 6 p.m.

Ruby Ybarra, project chairman, said plans include carryout service for patrons calling 876-9329.

The auxiliary voted donations to help fund Christmas baskets for needy families, a project of the Mexican Honorary Commission.

It was noted that Donald Valencia will continue to arrange for the gift baskets, which he has increased in number each year.

Members also agreed to contribute funds to aid Joseph Ybarra, who was injured in an accident earlier this year and is now a quadriplegic. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ybarra.

Joseph is in need of special equipment to help in his daily routine, the club was advised.

Details for the annual Christmas party, Dec. 13, were reviewed. Following the business session, the women learned glass staining under the direction of Chris Rayman. Chili, cake and coffee were served by Lisa Fensterman and Mary Martinez and prizes were won by Rose Grim and Mrs. Martinez. The group will next meet at 2 p.m. Oct. 23.

NON-EMERGENCY AMBULANCE SERVICE AVAILABLE

Some of the world's great wisdom comes from anonymous sources. Consider these examples: "The three most beautiful things in the world are a well-rigged ship, a woman with child and a full moon." "All the world is queer save me and thee; and sometimes I think there is a little queer." "Sow a thought, and you reap an act. Sow an act and you reap a habit. Sow a habit and reap a character. Sow a character and you reap a destiny." It is the common sense and humor surrounding these sayings that makes them worth remembering.

Words as well as deeds can produce the assistance and thoughts that last forever and provide a sense of thankfulness. At MERCER, THOMAS AND SEDLACK MORTUARIES we offer deeds as well as words in providing the vital physical services required by the passing of loved ones. The interment process is an emotional moment when difficult decisions must be made. Our staff offers the assistance and consideration that is so important in all matters at such a difficult time.

Moose 247 installs chairmen

Women of the Moose Chapter 247 held an installation ceremony last week for Suzanne Ramsey, membership chairman, and Bernice Singler, publicity chairman.

Installing Regent Mildred Votoupal conducted the ceremony at the Moose Lodge, 19th and Adams streets.

Senior Regent Theola Garcia presided at the business session when Kay Hoffman, sponsored by Rosella Mead, and Ginger Skaggs, sponsored by Marian Lipscomb, were approved for membership.

Mrs. Garcia reported on the recent state convention, which was attended by local members—Clara Johnson, Donna Westbrook, Carolyn Anders, Alice Staggs and Arlene Tadlock. Also attending were College of Regents' members—Edna Miller, Dorothy Coy, Sara Gusewelle, Mrs. Votoupal and Mrs. Lipscomb.

Serving as proteas at the meeting were Margaret Heister, Pauline Turnbaugh, Virginia Severs, Ruth Stover, Jean Teller, Mrs. Votoupal and Mrs. Coy.

During the social hour, games were played and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Turnbaugh, Clara Johnson and Sylvia Wood. Publicity committee members served refreshments.

Elmore-Candler

Miss Kimberly Jo Candler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Candler, 2507 Denver St., and Richard Donald Elmore Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Elmore, 3000 Cayuga Ave., were united in marriage on July 18 at the Second Baptist Church.

The Rev. Carl Watkins officiated at the 4 p.m. double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of rainbow color mums and gladioli. Nuptial selections, "If," "The Wedding Song," and "We've Only Just Begun" were sung by Paul Miles, a brother-in-law of the groom.

For her wedding, the bride chose a full length white organza gown designed with a fitted bodice, Queen Anne neckline and camelot sleeves, accented with Venice lace motifs.

The bouffant skirt and cathedral train was encircled with a gathered flounce.

Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was edged in lace and secured to a camelot headpiece and she held a cascade of white roses, blue blossoms, yellow sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath.

Matron of honor Mrs. Tina Fitzhugh served with bridesmaids, Ann Chepley and Cheryl Hutchins, and flower girl, Heather Justice. They were gowned alike in blue and yellow print gowns featuring off the shoulder necklines and full skirts.

The attendants held nosegays of blue carnations and yellow and blue flowers with baby's breath, and the flower girl carried a basket of similar flowers.

Candlelighters were Paula Mitchell, a cousin of the bride, and Kristie Elmore, a sister of the groom, and the ringbearer was Todd Mitchell, the bride's cousin.

Attending the groom were David Fitzhugh as best man, Warren Tolbert and Paul Naylor as groomsmen. Roger and David Downs, cousins of the bride, seated the guests.

Kathy Elmore, a sister of the groom, and Rhonda Sanders, attended the guest book at a reception held in the church fellowship hall. The rehearsal dinner was hosted at Petri's Restaurant.

Both young people are graduates of South High School. The bride is employed as a secretary at A. G. Edwards & Sons in St. Louis, and the groom works as a shipping clerk at Marcone Appliance Parts Center, St. Louis.

They are residing in Granite City.

of the Press-Record.
If learning to paint with water colors or creating Williamsburg Colonial spice wreaths and colorful dough art jar lids sounds interesting, the Granite City Park District is offering a wide variety of new instruction programs for adults during the fall months.

Enrollment in the different classes is limited and some may have been filled since the initial announcement appeared in Monday's Press-Record, the sponsors noted.

However, participation is open at the present time for most of the fall craft projects by registering in person at the Wilson Park office during business hours.

Proof of residency must be shown at the time of registration.

The cost of each project is nominal and must be paid at the time of registration, a park officer said.

Non-residents wishing to participate will be placed on a waiting list, and will be charged a non-resident's fee in addition to the amount assessed for supplies.

Fall and winter activities for youth, including baton twirling, tap and ballet dancing, tumbling and gymnastics and roller skating, also are scheduled to begin next week.

In the adult handicraft series, the following dates have been designated for the various classes:

"Star of Hearts," an applique and quilting project which creates an illusion of an eight-point star, surrounded with quilted hearts, and can be framed in a quilting hoop or finished into a pillow or bag. The class will meet Oct. 13, with Joyce Tracy as the instructor.

Spice wreaths were popular with the early colonists, serving to add color and scent to the otherwise drab surroundings. In a one-night project, either Oct. 20 or Oct. 22, how to make the Williamsburg Colonial wreaths will be taught by Michelle Bigham.

"Counted cross-stitch is becoming one of the most popular new versions of an old craft and members of this class, instructed by Linda Givens on Oct. 21, will make lids for pint size candy jars. All materials and a jar will be available at a small cost, but participants are being asked to provide their own scissors, needle and white sewing thread.

"Peggy Werkena, a noted artist from St. Louis County, will teach a class in all levels of creative painting using water colors from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. on Oct. 27. These miniature scenes will be offered and the paintings will be finished for framing at one session. A supply list may be obtained upon registering.

A basic introduction to calligraphy, featuring the old world art of Italian lettering, will be offered in a three-session class, scheduled Oct. 19, Oct. 26 and Nov. 2, with Joyce Tracy as instructor.

Drawing talent is not necessary and those taking part will learn to letter for fun or profit such items as greeting cards, wedding invitations, certificates and verses. The cost will be $5 and pen and paper will be provided.

Creating a holiday door or wall decoration will be the objective of those enrolled in the pine cone-cornhusk tree session, scheduled either Oct. 28 or Oct. 29, with Michelle Bigham as the teacher. The tree will measure 28x17 inches when finished.

Learn how to make an adaptation of the traditional Cathedral Window Quilt pattern. When assembled it will be an ornament, pin cushion or a sachet for potpourri.

Other patterns and samples will be on display Nov. 4, the date the class will be taught by Linda Givens. Scissors, a needle and white sewing thread must be provided by the participants.

The unique Lafayette Square Townhouse key chain or cross-stitch needlepoint will be made in imported tapestry yarn by those attending a class on Nov. 9 and Nov. 16, taught by Peggy Stevens. The pattern, which is from France, will be given students for use after the sessions are completed, she said.

Dough art projects have been made by park district groups before and due to many requests another class is planned, with participants learning to make lids for glass jars. Two lid choices will be offered, either a Christmas motif or one which may be used year-around.

The lids will be decorated with candies and ribbons and the jars will be filled with candy. Victoria Mertz will teach the class on Nov. 10 and Nov. 17. The only supplies required are a cake pan and a table fork.

In the youth activities, classes for beginners in tap and ballet dancing will be held from 7 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, starting Oct. 13, at the Nameoki Recreation Center. No charge will be made for the program, however, a $2 insurance fee must be paid. Registration will be on the first day of class.

Lessons for kindergarten through first grade pupils will take place from 4 to 5 p.m., second and third grades 5 to 6 p.m. and fourth, fifth and sixth grades from 6 to 7 p.m.

Basic lessons in baton twirling will be given every Wednesday, starting Oct. 14, from 5:30 to 7 p.m. at the Nameoki Recreation Center.

Children in grades 1 through 6 may register at the Wilson Park office prior to the classes starting. There is no charge for the insurance fee, but a $2 insurance fee is required.

Roller skating every Wednesday from 4 to 6 p.m. at Stoppokette's Roller Rink, 19th Street and Cleveland Boulevard, also begins Oct. 14. Children from grades 3 through 9 are eligible to participate and may register at the rink.

There is no admission charge, but those needing skates will pay a 75-cent rental fee.

Youngsters at all grade levels through high school may take part in tumbling and gymnastics classes at the Nameoki Recreation Center, starting the week of Oct. 19. Each class will be limited to 75 pupils.

Registrations will be accepted from 5 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 15, at the Nameoki Center. Other than the $2 insurance fee, no charge will be made for the instruction.

Beginner's classes are scheduled Monday and Thursday, with beginners meeting from 5 to 6 p.m. and advanced beginners from 6 to 7 p.m.

Intermediate classes, also meeting Monday and Thursday, will have intermediate and advanced intermediates from 7 to 8 p.m.

The advanced gymnastics class will meet on Wednesdays from 7 to 9 p.m.

Time (exercise to music) classes for adults will begin Oct. 13 and will meet on Tuesday evenings and Thursday mornings under the supervision of Lee Suarez.

There is no charge for park district residents to participate, but non-residents must pay a $15 fee. Registrations are being accepted at the Wilson Park office and proof of residency is required.

Future Secretaries begin new season

The beginning of a new school year signals the start of monthly educational meetings for the members of GCIS-North and GCIS-South Future Secretaries Associations. These chapters, as well as the Madison High School FSA Chapter, are sponsored by the Tri-Cities Chapter of Professional Secretaries International.

Representative for the Granite City High School Chapters is Mrs. Charlene Vunovic, CPA, assisted by former FSA member and new PSI member, Sharon Werner. Beginning her fifth year as PSI representative for the Granite City FSA Chapter is Mrs. Helen Gieseler.

Complying with suggested procedures from international headquarters, this year's installation and initiation ceremonies are being conducted in a simpler manner. Installation of officers at the Granite City High School chapters was held at the beginning of the month, meeting last week at both schools. Mrs. Vunovic was installing officer at North, assisted by Mrs. Mary Gail Foster, former PSI member and president of the Tri-Cities Chapter, PSI. At South High School, Miss Werner conducted the installation, assisted by Miss Jo Elaine Foster, former FSA member 1973-1975.

Both chapters began the new school year with panel discussions. At South, an FSA alumni panel was selected for the first program of the year. Sharon Werner, secretary, and Paul Lauber of Chapman and Carlson law firm, and Jo Elaine Foster were the panelists.

Mrs. Vunovic took the role of moderator. Both spoke in detail about their jobs and job responsibilities, the value of FSA membership, and emphasized the importance of education, trustworthiness, information gained through employment is never to be discussed with others, they stressed.

Miss Foster became an FSA member in 1973 until her graduation in 1975. She became interested in the court reporter occupation, took additional courses after school, and organized her own firm, Jo Elaine Foster & Associates, in 1978. She now has two individuals working for her.

Miss Werner explained the duties of her job, and when asked how she obtained it, she stated that she began working for the firm while in high school through the co-op program, and it became a full-time job for her upon graduation.

Twenty-seven eligible juniors were present at the Granite City, and all signed up for membership. Mrs. Pat Rich, faculty advisor, explained the standards they had met which qualified them for membership, and briefly explained the programs planned for the remaining five educational meetings in 1981-82.

Carl Azeizer, FSA president, told the prospective members of the contest for the FSA Award.

Daughter born to Mr. & Mrs. Juess

Mr. and Mrs. David (Kathy) Juess, 3157 Willow Ave., are announcing the birth of their second child, a daughter, on Oct. 3 at Oliver C. Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

The new arrival weighed six pounds, 10 ounces, and has been named Karen Michelle. She has a 4-year old sister, Paula.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Juess of Granite City, Mrs. Russell Ballard of Calhoun, Ga., and Glen Good, McClure, Ohio. Great-grandparents include Mrs. Mabel Ferguson, Calhoun, Ga., and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Good of Napoleon, Ohio.

and Junior FSA Award, presented in May at the banquet, and how points were awarded.

Officers installed at North FSA chapter were Tracy Free, president; Christy Lauderdale, vice-president; Chris Caton, recording secretary; Janet Raynor, treasurer; Carla Gibson and April Schneider, board members at large. Not present for the meeting was Lisa Kalka, corresponding secretary.

Tracy Free introduced the faculty advisor, Mrs. Linda Haddox, who is beginning her fourth year as advisor, and Mrs. Vunovic, PSI representative, who also served as moderator for the secretarial panel which spoke at North's meeting.

This panel was composed of a new PSI member, and new Certified Professional Secretary, Mrs. Karen Malottki, Mrs. Mary Gail Foster, PSI-Tri-Cities chapter president; and Rena Hill, who was the president of North FSA chapter in 1978-79, the first year that Mrs. Haddox served as advisor, and who was responsible for obtaining her as an advisor. Miss Hill related her job experiences, and advised the audience not to be afraid of taking a job, thinking they may not be qualified. The best thing to do is to give it your best effort, and you may be surprised at the results.

Many in the audience expressed an interest in the Certified Professional Secretary examination, and asked Mrs. Malottki several questions about the CPS examination. They were told of the different sections of the two-day, fourteen hour test, and the qualifications an individual must have before being allowed to sit for the exam.

There were 23 juniors present at North's meeting, who had received invitations to become members due to having met the qualifications. Mrs. Vunovic announced that an FSA initiation of new FSA members from both North and South would be held at North on Tuesday, Oct. 20, and parents will be invited to attend these ceremonies.

The speaker for the Oct. 20 meeting will be Mrs. Gail Foley Wolff, CPS, who will educational meetings each school year. She emphasized the importance of attendance at the minimum of four meetings will be sufficient cause for loss of membership.

Both faculty advisors urged the new members and renewing members to submit their dues in advance of the deadline in order to be members in good standing. Ways and means projects were enthusiastically discussed, and members will begin selling the items selected as their projects at both North and South within the next two weeks.

Vice-Regent Ann Pieporce opened the meeting and installed Lena Minceff as a new member.

Plans were made to hold a white auction sale at the November meeting and the refreshment committee will be, Mrs. Kozuszek, Catherine Jenkins, Cleta Judd, Ann Kientzy, Dolores Klesh, Josephine Gochfert, Mildred Krause, Veronica Kula, Mary Lahey and Mrs. Lambert.

The birthday honoree for the month was Frances Baker.

A Christmas party is set for Dec. 3 with final arrangements to be announced at the next meeting by Mrs. Gyrnati, chairman, it was noted.

Flower giveaway at Wilson Park

The Granite City Park District will give away flower and plant cuttings starting at 9 a.m. Friday in the Wilson Park gardens.

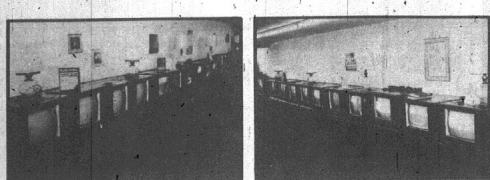

No roses nor chrysanthemums will be distributed at this time, park officials said.

Those wishing to obtain the free cuttings are required to provide their own containers, the spokesman added.

The plants will be dug and distributed by the gardeners, it was noted.

"TO THE RESIDENTS OF MADISON"

Let's keep City Hall where it belongs — in Madison, not Springfield.

Any resident of Madison who wants to go to the City Hall at 1529 Third Street can get there in three minutes or less.

The City Council meets every other Tuesday; week in, week out, except for holidays, the year-round.

There are only eleven members of the council to contact — the ten aldermen and the mayor, and they are accountable not to just one neighborhood or one segment of the city but to ALL citizens in Madison.

Home Rule does not bar referendums on important issues. If it does anything it makes the city council more careful and more deliberate in any action its members take. Why? Because they are responsible to the people who put them in office, and who can take them out. Home Rule keeps government closer to the people.

Isn't this just about as accessible a government as anyone could ask?

Have CONFIDENCE in your local elected officials.

'Bowl' to be site of area soccer sectional

By PETE HAYES

of the Press-Record

BLOOMINGTON — The Illinois High School Association (IHSA) today announced its 1981 assignments for post-season prep soccer play. And for the first time ever, Collinsville has been selected as the site for the 22-team southern Illinois sectional.

Winners from four sub-sectionals, to be played around the area Oct. 27-29 and 31, will advance to the "Football Bowl" in Collinsville Nov. 3 and 6 to play for the right to advance to the State Final Tournament Nov. 13 and 14 at Palatine Fremd High School near Chicago.

Five-time defending state champion Granite City South and cross-town rival Granite City North have been paired in the same sub-sectional tournament, along with Cahokia, East St. Louis Assumption and Madison.

Collinsville, meanwhile, appears to have a relatively easier route to the Sectional. The Kahoks are assigned to the same sub-sectional with Metro-East Lutheran (playing its second season of varsity soccer), St. Paul-Highland, Lebanon, O'Fallon and Triad (playing its first season of varsity soccer).

In another sub-sectional, Alton Marquette, Alton Senior, Bethalto, Edwardsville, Roxana and Wood River will battle it out.

Belleville Althoff, Belleville East, Belleville West, Waterloo Gibault and Waterloo Senior have been assigned to the fourth sub-sectional playing into the Collinsville Sectional.

Collinsville is being selected as the sectional site comes as a bit of a surprise, considering the field the Kahoks have to play on. The "Football Bowl," with dimensions of 100 yards long X 60 yards wide, is much narrower than most soccer fields, and has a wire link fence about two feet out of bounds which has been a hazard to some players in the past.

At one time, because the field is in a bowl, portions of the corners of the end zones were on an incline meaning that some of the corner-kicks have to be moved out away from the actual corner, giving the team taking the corner kick an angle on the goal. That has been changed, however — by moving the goals in about 10 yards at each end, shortening the field by nearly 20 yards.

Plans had been made during the recent off-season for the Kahoks to play their home games on the Jaycees Sports Complex on St. Louis Road. The field there is well-lighted, wide and in excellent condition. However, all the details could not be worked out and games at the "Football Bowl."

Collinsville head coach Jim Stranz, who is a member of the IHSA Soccer Advisory Committee, said he is growing weary of all the complaining about the Kahoks' field. "I'm tired of this," he said. "It's not a big deal."

North-South battle on tap Friday

GRANITE CITY — The first of two games this season between cross-town rivals Granite City South and Granite City North highlights play as area prep football teams enter the fifth weekend of the season.

North and South will square off at Memorial Field at 7:30 p.m. Friday. South will be the home team and will be celebrating its annual homecoming as well. The two will meet again Nov. 6 on the same field. North will be the home team and will be celebrating ITS homecoming. Only this week's game will count in the Gateway East Conference standings.

North and South are teams on opposite ends of the spectrum. Coach Tom Wyrostek's North Steelers are looking for their fourth straight win after edging defending state Class 4B and GEC champion Belleville Althoff 7-6 last week. After losing their first game of the season 22-0 to Roxana, the Steelers have outscored their opposition 59-6 in the last three games and have a 1-0 record in the GEC.

The Steelers feature a balanced attack, including running back, part-time quarterback, linebacker, punter and placekicker Daren DePew. The 6-1 junior has kicked four field goals in four attempts this season, including a state-record 54-yarder two weeks ago against Wood River. North's quarterback is Carl Luehmann, who has 14 of 33 pass attempts this season for 188 yards. Doug Sheppard is North's leading rusher with 157 yards and a 3.6 yards per carry average. Alan Pregel (88, 3.8) and DePew (74, 7.4) are the other two Steeler ball carriers.

South, on the other hand, is still looking for its first victory of the season. After a 62-0 thrashing at the hands of Belleville East in the season-opener, the Warriors of first-year coach Jerry McKechan came back to almost pull off wins in their next two games. They fell to O'Fallon 28-22 and Edwardsville 27-22. Last week, however, they were soundly beaten by Cahokia 34-12.

"We'll get there, dadgummit," said McKechan. "These guys are working their tails off."

"I take my hat off to Tom (Wyrostek). He was one of my coaches my senior year (at GC Senior High) and he's taught me a lot. If it wasn't for him, I wouldn't be here."

Soccer elite converge at South

GRANITE CITY — When the Granite City South Soccer Tournament of Champions gets underway here Thursday evening, don't be surprised if you see an NCAA Division I head soccer coach or two in the crowd. It'll be a college recruiter's paradise.

The tournament will feature three defending state prep champions and a defending district champ from Missouri in a three-game, round-robin format at The Gauntlet. Competing will be Vianney, the powerful defending Missouri state champion, Evansville Reitz Memorial, the two-time defending Indiana state champion, Granite South, the five-time defending Illinois state champion and River-view Gardens, the defending Missouri North District champ. The four have a combined record of 99-5 this season.

South coach Gene Baker got the idea for the tourney last year during the prestigious C.Y.C. Tournament in St. Louis, which his team won after being the first Illinois team ever invited to the meet. "Some of the coaches were a little dissatisfied with the way things were being run in the C.Y.C.," said Baker. "And we got the idea to host our own tournament."

Tonight, Memorial will face Vianney at 6 o'clock and South will face Riverview at 8 p.m. Friday, Vianney will play Riverview at 4 p.m. and South will face Memorial at 6 p.m. Saturday. Riverview will play Memorial at 4 p.m. and South will face Vianney at 8 p.m.

It's no coincidence that the Tourney of Champions is being held the same weekend as the

C.Y.C. this year. And for the first time in many years, the C.Y.C. is being held without two longtime entrants — Vianney and Riverview. In fact, without Vianney, it can't even claim the best team in the St. Louis area as an entrant.

But Baker gives the C.Y.C. credit. "This isn't so much as anti-C.Y.C. as pro-soccer," he explained as a dinner meeting Wednesday night at Charlie's Restaurant in Granite City for visiting coaches, officials and news media. "The C.Y.C. has done a lot of for soccer in the St. Louis area. But we wanted to host a tournament that would boost soccer, and our own program, statewide."

The tournament should indeed do that. In fact, even before the first kickoff, plans were being made to expand the tourney to eight teams next year. Several St. Louis area powers and CLINTONVILLE — Seems Paul Barrington and his Granite City North teammates like to keep things in suspense.

Barrington scored a 25-yard goal with 1:25 remaining in the game here Tuesday night to lift the Steelers to a thrilling 3-2 prep victory over Collinsville in a game played on the Kahoks' tiny "Football Bowl" field. Last Thursday, North used a 35-yard goal with 1:08 remaining to tie Granite City South and then nearly won it when Barrington's 30-yard shot hit the crossbar with 19 seconds left.

"We make things interesting, don't we?" said North head coach Bob Kehoe. "A game like this one can give either side some lackluster play by the North defense. With 15:11 remaining in the third quarter, Collinsville's Randy Hensler took the ball at midfield and drove all the way to the right corner and then toward the goal. With North defenders all around him, he scored from about 15 yards out on a shot that resembled a cross pass, going in from near post to far post. "It was a hell of an individual effort by Hensler," said Stranz. "You tell me what you saw tonight wasn't good soccer."

Kehoe had a different view of Hensler's goal. "It was a good effort by the kid (Hensler)," he said. "But we had plenty of chances to kick it out of bounds. We should have just given up a throw-in or even a corner kick. I won't say it was a dumb play, but it wasn't intelligent."

Collinsville took a 1-0 lead with 3:18 remaining in the first quarter on a goal by David Holloman. After North failed to clear the ball three times out of their own penalty area, Holloman chipped in the ball after it bounced off the hands of goalie Jeff Sharp, who started it place of regular goalie Rich Branding. "I wanted to give Jeff a chance to play against some tough competition," said Kehoe. "He had three or four shutouts, but they weren't against real tough competition."

After shaking off some early jitters, Sharp appeared more confident as the game went on.

Bryam Levin tied the game for the Steelers at the 14:19 mark of the second quarter when he took a pass from Bryan Hartwick and scored from about 15 yards out. Birch, trying to make the save, hit his jaw on the right goal post but stayed in the game.

At the 10:21 mark, Benny Nolan, off an assist from Brian Pickens, headed the ball over a leaping Birch to give North a 2-1 lead at halftime.

much smaller than ours and with fences much more dangerous," he said. "This is a legitimate soccer field."

"Granite City's had it (sectional tournament) the last four years," Stranz said. "Now it's our turn. There's nothing illegal about our field."

Other sectionals will be hosted by Wheaton-Warrenville, Niles West, St. Charles, Hinsdale South, Springfield Southeast, New Trier, and the Chicago Public League.

even some from Chicago are clamoring to get in. "We've had calls from St. Mary's (St. Louis) and New Trier (Chicago) among others," said Baker. "It's gratifying to see how it's taken off."

Any team that wins the tournament two years straight will keep a traveling trophy. Not only that, but they'll also win a new set of uniforms.

Here's a rundown of this year's slate:

VIANNY
Perhaps one of the best teams ever in soccer—St. Louis, the Golden Griffins feature 16 returnees from last season's Missouri state championship team.

Vianny, 11-0, has given two goals in a single game only once this season and its starting squad has given up only one goal.

"This could be my best team ever here," said Griffins coach Mike Villa.

"The depth is what makes it that way. We won the state title in 1978, and that team may have had a better starting 11. But up and down the bench, this one's probably stronger."

"We're excited about the tournament," he said. "It's good exposure for the kids and it's good for soccer."

Vianny is led by striker Steve Maurer, a senior.

REITZ MEM.
The Reitz Memorial Tigers, 11-0-1 before a conference game Wednesday night, have pretty well had things their own way in Indiana the last couple years. Coached by former St. Louis Bill Veith, they have romped to the state title.

The player to watch is senior midfielder Bill Veith—the coach's son.

"He is our best player," said Veith. "But we've got a pretty balanced attack."

Last season, Granite South traveled to Evansville and defeated Memorial 3-1. But the second half was played virtually dead-even between the two. "Our trouble is that our guys don't think they can play with teams from Illinois and Missouri until it's the second half. And by then, it's too late," he said.

"But I think they'll be ready to play for this one. They'd better be."

will face the champion from Niles West. First round night games will feature the Chicago Public League champ against the winner from Hinsdale South at 5:30 and the winners from Springfield Southeast and New Trier at 7:30.

Since the winners from Collinsville and Springfield are paired in opposite brackets, an all-downstate championship game could occur for the first time ever.

RIVERVIEW

The Rams, 7-2, reached the final four last season at the Missouri State Finals. The defending North District champs, they have some big shoes to fill with the graduation of goalie Pat Baker (Gene Baker's cousin), now a starter at St. Louis University.

But heart coach Frank McHugh said his team has answered the bell. "We haven't played the toughest part of our schedule yet," he said. "But we've played well in most of our games."

"We won't move the ball as well as Vianny or South, but we do other things well to make up for it." Midfielder Stacy Allen and forward Steve Stocker head the Rams' attack.

GC SOUTH
The five-time Illinois champs sport a 10-1 record this season and still haven't started hitting on all cylinders. The Warriors are having trouble getting the ball in the net, even though they've dominated most of their games.

Basketball meeting

GRANITE CITY—There will be an organizational meeting for the Granite City Park District's basketball program on Thursday, 15, 7 p.m., at the Nameoki Recreation Center. All interested parties are urged to attend. League play is scheduled to commence Nov. 30.

EDWARDSVILLE — A meet that could be described as "who's who" among collegiate tennis is on tap Oct. 23-24, when Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will serve as host to the 1981 Seven-Up Fall Tennis Invitational Tournament. This year's championships, to be held at the Oak Hill Racket Club of Belleville, feature eight of the top 100 players in the country, including the University of Arkansas, Clemson University, the University of Michigan, the University of Minnesota, SIU-Carbondale, the University of Wisconsin, Illinois State University and SIUE.

Arkansas, the fifth-best team in the final national rankings last year, enters the 1981 campaign as the defending Southwest Conference champions and one of the pre-Seven-Up tournament favorites. Clemson, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion in 1981 and sixth in the final national poll, should also be a force in the Seven-Up championships, while Michigan and Minnesota, the co-champions of the Big Ten Conference last year, could pull off an upset.

SIUE enters the tournament on the wake of four consecutive NCAA Division II national championships. The Cougars also surprised the talent-laden field last year by finishing second to Clemson in the Seven-Up meet. The Wisconsin Badgers, who surprised SIUE in a 5-4 dual meet victory last season, SIUC, and Illinois State will each enter some of the best individual talent of the tournament.

Besides the team competition, individual honors will be on the line as approximately 10 of the top 50 amateur players in the country will be on hand.

Detective Sergeant Donald Knight of the Granite City Police Department was one of 250 law enforcement officers who graduated last month from the FBI National Academy, Quantico, Va.

Sam Nunt, senior senator from the state of Georgia, was the principal speaker at the graduation ceremonies of the 28th Session of the FBI National Academy.

Robert B. Davenport, special agent in charge of the Springfield FBI office, said the ceremonies concluded 11 weeks of management level training for officers from all states, with the exception of Iowa.

Members of the class also represented law enforcement agencies from the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, and the countries of Australia, Canada, Egypt, Federal Republic of Germany, Hong Kong, Japan, Mexico, and the Republic of China. Also graduating were representatives from six military organizations and five federal civilian organizations.

To date, 15,391 officers have graduated from the FBI National Academy since it began in 1935. Of this number, more than 10,000 are still active in law enforcement and 1,384 graduates occupy the top executive positions of their agencies.

The FBI National Academy curriculum is designed to meet the needs of contemporary law enforcement in such disciplines as management, law, forensic science, education, communication, and the behavior sciences.

Each year 1,000 law enforcement officers from throughout the United States and the free world are invited to participate in the FBI National Academy Program.

Detective Sgt. Knight received an associate of Science Degree from the Belleville Area College in 1975, and a bachelor's degree from the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville in 1980.

Knight has been with the Granite City Police Department for 11 years. He was in the patrol division for three and one-half years and in the investigative division for seven years. He and his wife, Janet, have four children: Rick, 22, Tammy, 21, Craig, 19, and Robin, 16. Sgt. Knight's parents, Jesse and Marie Knight, also reside in Granite City.

New legislation to guarantee benefits

No accident and health insurance policy issued in Illinois may deny benefits to an insured who is a recipient of public aid payments because of legislation Gov. James R. Thompson has signed into law and which became effective immediately, reported Philip R. O'Connor, director, Illinois Department of Insurance.

Other new laws extend the consumer 10-day free look at policies to 20 days. The free-look provision applies to annuities, pure indemnities and home debt life contracts. "During the free-look period a consumer may request a full refund of any premium 'paid,'" said Director O'Connor. New legislation also decreases any life insurance sold to replace an existing policy may not be issued until 20 days after an application for the life policy was signed, said O'Connor, who noted, "after receiving the policy a consumer has 20 days to request a total refund of a premium paid."

Social Security credit is outlined

Before any Social Security benefits can be paid, a worker must have enough credit for work covered by Social Security to be insured. Oliver Holmes, Social Security district manager in East St. Louis, is pointing out.

Social Security credits are measured in units called "quarters of coverage." Both wage earners and self-employed people earn these credits based on their total annual earnings.

A wage earner's earnings are generally covered from the first dollar earned during the year, up to the maximum that counts for Social Security, $28,700 in 1981.

Self-employed person's earnings are covered, however, only if his or her net earnings amount to $400 or more. If net earnings are at least $400, then total earnings are covered up to the Social Security maximum, or whatever the income totals within that limitation.

In 1981, a person earns one quarter of coverage for each $310 of covered annual earnings.

If 1981 annual earnings amount to $1,240 or more, the person earns four quarters of coverage. No more than four quarters can be earned in a year.

The amount of covered earnings needed for a quarter of coverage will increase automatically each year to keep pace with increases in average wage levels.

The general rule is that, to be insured, a person needs one quarter of coverage for each year after 1950, or after the year a person reaches age 22, if later, up to the year he or she reaches 62, becomes disabled, or dies.

For example, a person reaching 62 in 1981 needs 30 quarters of coverage to be insured for retirement benefits.

No one ever needs more than 40 quarters to be insured. And, a person cannot be insured with fewer than six quarters.

More information about Social Security credits can be obtained at the East St. Louis Social Security office. A free leaflet, "How you earn Social Security credits," is available there.

The office is located at 650 Missouri Ave., and the telephone number is 274-4100 or Enterprise 1-555.

Italian film is planned at SIUE

The University Center Board at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will sponsor an Italian film, "The Bicycle Thief" (G), Oct. 15-17.

Under the direction of Vittorio de Sica, the film is scheduled to be shown in Meridian Ballroom in the University Center, Oct. 15 at 2:30 p.m., in the DeJa Vu Room of the Center on Oct. 16 at 7 and 9:30 p.m., and in the DeJa Vu Room on Oct. 17 at 7 p.m.

Following World War II, Italian directors attempted to "de-romanticize" the cinema. DeSica became a leader of this Neo-realism movement with "The Bicycle Thief," a tale of the quest of a poor laborer and his son for the father's stolen bicycle in a ravaged, post-war Italian city. This 1949 film won the Academy Award for best foreign language film.

Tickets are $1 for SIUE students with identification and $1.50 for non-students.

IN MEMORY OF ELDON WOFFORD, Oct. 8, 1979. Eldon, when you left us, 20 years ago, you left behind so many people, that love and miss you so. You left behind such sorrow heartaches and tears, and the pain is still here with us, after two long years. It's the good and happy memories that help us make it through, and the love and joy that was brought to us by a very special someone which was you. Now you're up in heaven, where there's no more sorrow, no more pain, and some day the time will come when we can all be together again. — Sadly missed by wife Katie, Pam, Steve, Lisa and Cindy. 32 10 8

IN MEMORY OF BEN S. GIERER, Oct. 10, 1980. A man can be a father, but it takes someone special to be a dad, to smile when we are happy and cry when we are sad, to love and understand us, to teach us what is best, and sometimes through our selfishness, put his love to rest. We have left you a treasure, a treasure of wealth to behold, his Bible as he spoke the word, our silver locket on his heart, our gold we cried the day he left, the loss we could not stand, we felt he should live some day, to be a kind and loving man. But God reached out his loving arms, said "Ben, come with me abide, I have earned a special place right here by my side. — Deeply missed by The Greer Family and All Who Loved Him. 32 10 8

IN LOVING MEMORY OF ALEXANDER J. ROZYCKE, Oct. 11, 1975. — Sadly missed by Wife, Daughter and Son-in-law. 32 10 8

IN LOVING MEMORY OF dear daughter, sister, sister-in-law and aunt, PHAMBA B. (DONOHUE) DOUGLAS, who passed away Oct. 9, 1979. You were a crown of patience as you struggled on and on, and the hands that rest forever, are the hands that were so strong. God watched you while you suffered and he knew you had your share, he tenderly closed your weary eyes and took you in his care. — Sadly missed by Mother, Brother, Sister-in-law, Nephews and All Who Love Her. 32 10 8

ALEXANDER J. ROZYCKE, Oct. 11, 1975. To his resting place we go, the hands that rest forever, are the hands that were so strong, but no one knows the heartache, as we turn and leave him there. — Sadly missed by Sisters and Family. 32 10 8

IN LOVING MEMORY OF one we love so dear, DARLENE DAIGER, Oct. 8, 1980. — Mother, Brother, Sister and Family. 32 10 8

IN LOVING MEMORY OF IMOGENE HOUSEMAN, Oct. 11, 1977. — Sadly missed by All Who Loved Her. 32 10 8

IN LOVING MEMORY OF our BROTHER, ELDON WOFFORD, Oct. 8, 1979. The depths of sorrow we cannot tell, of the loss of one we loved so well, and while he sleeps a peaceful sleep, his memory we shall always keep. Not dead to us who loved him, not lost but gone before, he lives with us in memory and will forever remain. — So sadly missed by Sister and Brothers. 32 10 8

IN THE MATTER OF THE CHOUTEAU, NAMEOKI AND VENICE DRAINAGE AND LEVEE DISTRICT: LONG LAKE LEVEE AND DRAINAGE SUB-DISTRICT
NOTICE OF HEARING

160 acres of coal-rich land is donated to McKendree College

Friday, October 2, 1981 will certainly go down as a very important day in the history of McKendree College. The date marks the best thing to happen to the 153 year-old institution of higher learning in the past decade.

Alexander Wildy, an 89 year-old resident of New Athens, Ill. gave McKendree College a donation of 160 acres of coal-rich land valued at $1 million. Wildy grew up and farmed on this land, which was turned over to the college at the annual Board of Trustees-Faculty appreciation dinner last week.

Mineral rights to the land, located two miles southeast of New Athens will be sold to a coal-mining company, according to college officials.

The majority of the donation will be used to refurbish the old science building, which has been vacant for two years for safety reasons. The building, to be used for classrooms will be named for Wildy.

Wildy, who graduated in 1912 from Central Wesleyan College (Warrenton, MO.) decided to make the donation to McKendree College because of his religious convictions and strong ties to The United Methodist Church. Central Wesleyan College is no longer in existence.

McKendree College is the oldest college in the state of Illinois, the 97th oldest in the nation and the oldest in the country with continuous ties to The United Methodist Church.

"I'm very happy to be able to do this for McKendree," said Wildy. "after all, you can't take it with you, right?" I just wanted to help others."

McKendree College president, Gerrit TenBrink is very encouraged by Wildy's generosity and belief in McKendree College. "I hope this solidifies the fact that private colleges, particularly McKendree College will continue to be financially viable as they move into the future."

The gift is the largest received by McKendree College since 1970, when Marion Bothwell made a $1-million bequest to renovate the Chapel.

Statement must support loan requests

To comply with new federal guidelines which became effective Oct. 1, students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville who plan to apply for Illinois Guaranteed Loans must have an A.C.T. Family Financial Statement on file in the Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance or have completed a "needs test" form.

According to John P. Jennett, director, applicants whose family adjusted gross income (including the income of the student applicant) for 1980 was less than $30,000 will qualify for the loans.

Where the figure exceeds $30,000, Jennett said the eligibility for the loan will be determined by a "needs test." Forms for the "needs test" will be available in the SUUE Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance, approximately Oct. 7.

Additional information concerning scholarships, loans, and other financial assistance may be obtained by telephoning 692-3880.

Circus to visit SIUE

The Royal Lichtenstein Quarter-Ring Sideshow Circus will visit the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville campus Oct. 19.

Sponsored by the University Center Board, the Circus will perform on the Morris Quadrangle at noon. In the event of rain, the performance will be presented in the Goshen Lounge of the University Center. The event is free.

The troupe will feature aerial Roman rings by an award-winning gymnast, Mrs. Larson, and foot balancing by Robert Lee of the New York School of Circus Arts.

Actress and dancer Nanci Olesen of Minneapolis and Stephen De Sualniers, veteran aerialist, will appear in narrated pantomime fables as well as the show's magic numbers. In addition to the circus troupe, performers will include a bear cub, pony, dogs and birds. This year's expanded menu of magic is under the tutelage of ringmaster Nick Weber.

The show will include two narrated mime fables: "Miles from Giles," in which the blind strength of a brutal giant is pitted against the wit of a village shoemaker; and "Ploughsharing," wherein favorite pastimes allow monarchs reigning in different countries to discover new compatibility.

Halloween skate party

A Halloween skating party for Lake School students and parents is scheduled from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 8, at Stoppott's Roller Rink, 1823 Cleveland Blvd.

Prizes will be awarded for "best" costumes, with parents cautioned to make sure the outfit worn by a child will not create a skating hazard, according to Linda Viessman, PTA spokesman.

An admission fee of $1.50 for children and adults includes skate rentals. The remaining skating parties for Lake pupils are set Nov. 19, Dec. 10 (Christmas party), Jan. 14, Feb. 11, March 11 and April 8.

Wolf, Steele placed in same district

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record
Two popular local state legislators, Democrat Sam Wolf and Republican Everett G. Steele, have been placed in the same new legislative district. Fifty-nine three-member districts are being changed to 118 single-member Illinois House districts.

New boundaries throughout the state were devised by Illinois Democrats, and the local district would appear to favor Wolf, since most local voters are Democrats. However, Steele indicates he will seek re-election in 1982.

Both have been active at various times in the Granite City Board of Realtors, and regard themselves as friends. Despite differing political beliefs, they have worked cooperatively on some legislative measures.

Steele has served in the Illinois legislature since being elected in November 1974 and is in his fourth two-year term. Wolf was appointed to the General Assembly Oct. 9, 1975, following the January 1977, and was elected to two-year terms in 1978 and 1980.

The third local state representative, three-term Democrat Jim McElke of Alton, has been placed in a new district including Alton, Godfrey, Fort Russell Township and the River. Steele and the 11st and 12th districts will be part of the local Illinois Senate territory, served by Democrat Sam Vadalabene.

The new Illinois legislative map was approved Friday by a commission whose ninth member, chosen by a coin toss, is a former Democratic governor, Samuel Shapiro. He defended it as giving both parties a 50-50 chance of winning House control.

Republicans derided the new map as a one-sided "kindergarten picture" and said they will challenge it. House Democratic Leader Michael Madigan of Chicago, who GOP legislators said was mostly responsible for the new map, asserted Republicans "haven't got a case" despite their talk of an appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court.

A technical point that may be raised is the allegation that the map failed to meet a legal requirement that it be disclosed 24 hours in advance of a vote by the commission. A Republican member of the redistricting panel, Rep. Arthur Telser of Chicago, called it "outrageous."

Reached today, Rep. Wolf said he will be a candidate in the Democratic primary next spring. He said he still feels that it was a mistake to reduce the House of Representatives from 177 to 118 members effective in January 1983, a plan approved by voters in 1980. "I was against the cutback proposal, and I still feel the same way—that it's not going to save the state any money. There will be fewer representatives, but it will increase the cost of the bureaucracy that does a lot of the preliminary decision-making.

"I would have preferred to see voters in each area continue to have direct representation by members of the majority party and a member of the minority party."

While Wolf would have liked to see the present 56th District remain intact, he acknowledged that he has "little sympathy" for the Republican map that might have been approved if the GOP's Richard Ogilvie had become the tie-breaking, ninth commission member. That map paired Granite City and East St. Louis, where the legislator is Rep. W. Young. Wolf resides in Granite City Township and Steele lives in Glen Carbon, a part of Edwardsville Township.

The new local district also includes Woodmont, Venice, Chouteau, Omphugh, Pin Oak, Moro and Hamel townships.

Among the potential casualties of the cutback and the redistricting is Rep. Celeste Stiel of Belleville, a Republican. An assistant party leader in the House, she will be pitted against Rep. Young, a Democrat.

GC unemployment at 12.5%

Unemployment continues to plague the Quad-City area as the number of persons seeking work in the area and throughout Madison County continues to exceed the state average of eight percent.

The unemployment rate in Granite City climbed nearly two percent to 12.5 percent during August, according to preliminary figures released by the Illinois Department of Labor. Granite City's unemployment rate is second only to Belleville's among the larger cities in Madison and St. Clair counties. Alton's unemployment rate is 10.2 percent and East St. Louis has only 10 percent of the workers seeking work.

Belleville was high among the larger cities with an unemployment rate of 12.6 percent.

According to figures compiled by R.L. Worden of the research and analysis section of the Department of Labor, 16,874 Granite City workers are employed while 2,106 are seeking work. That is an increase among those unemployed of nearly 400 workers from the 2,024 unemployed in the final July figures, which showed unemployment in July at 10.7 percent.

In Madison County, 11,287 workers, or 8.7 percent of the work force of 127,077 persons, was unemployed according to the preliminary August figures. That is still above the state average unemployment of 8.0 percent, Worden said. The number of unemployed in Madison County increased from 10,110 in July to 11,287 in August while the work force increased from 116,136 to 117,077, Worden's statistics show.

The Madison County unemployment rate is higher than the 9.4 percent average for the seven county study area, which includes Madison, St. Clair, Bond, Calhoun, Clinton, Jersey and Monroe counties. Of a labor force of 247,905, in the seven county area, 26,739 were unemployed in August, Worden notes. The rate for the area increased from 9.0 percent to 9.4 percent.

Sluggish start for United Way

Contributions to the United Way are lagging in the Quad-City area and volunteers are being urged to "go out with determination and get it done." That was the charge given to volunteers at the first report meeting of this year's United Way campaign Friday afternoon in the YMCA. The charge was given by Melvin C. Wilmameyer, drive chairman, when the reports from the five division vice-chairmen showed that the drive had reached only 9.5 percent of its $695,000 goal in the first two weeks.

Wilmameyer noted that at the first report meeting last year, $139,151, or 20.3 percent of the goal, had been reached. "We are well behind the pace set last year. On the business end, some boards of directors have not yet met, so that is slowing down (collections from) the business area," he noted.

This year's goal is $695,000, of which $66,248 has been raised, the first report meeting showed.

The highest division, percentage-wise, in meeting its goal was Division A, covering clubs, organizations and special donors, which had collected $2,575 in donations and pledges, or 32.2 percent of its goal of $8,000. Barry Loman is vice-chairman of that division.

Harley Davis, vice-chairman of Division B, which is for professional persons and private non-profit organizations, reported pledges and donations of $7,295, or 6.9 percent of the division's goal of $105,000.

Division C vice-chairman Frank McGinnis reported that his group, which solicits from all area governmental employees, has $2,753 pledged, or 6.9 percent of that division's goal of $40,000.

The vice-chairman for Division D, Bill Terrell, reported that $12,779 has been pledged and collected from businesses and commercial establishments, representing 18 percent of the division's goal of $71,000.

The final vice-chairman to report was Terry Seabolt of Division E, which is for industry, construction and transportation workers. Seabolt reported that $40,886 has been pledged in that division, which is only 7.7 percent of the goal of $530,000. However, it was noted, many of the large contributions from local industries have not yet come in, but are expected by the next report meeting Oct. 16.

Eleven "Gold Awards," honoring groups and firms which exceeded their goals under the "Fair Share Giving" program, were announced during the first report meeting. Receiving the awards were Ralph Elliott, representing Shell Oil Co. and its employees; Rosie Stern, representing Illinois Bell Telephone Co., Sandy Boyer, representing the telephone company's employees; Bill Patton, representing the Granite City (Trust) Bank and its employees; Bill Atkins, representing Mental Health Services of Southern Madison County and its employees, and Christ Paschoff, representing Venice Township.

Granite Sheet Metal and its employees also qualified for gold awards, but were not represented at the report meeting and the awards are to be sent to them. Bill Donovan, United Way President, announced that there are more than 350 volunteers for the United Way in the Quad-City area this year and stated, "I am optimistic we are going to collect (the goal) this year."

Jim Stack, president of Granite City Steel, was a special guest at the meeting and gave the large number of volunteers present a "pep talk." Stack said, "The old adage of 'Love Thy Neighbor' is lacking. It's a dream." He said that at a time when the national government is shifting some of the responsibilities of caring for the underprivileged to the state and local agencies, it becomes more important that groups such as the United Way help fill the gaps.

"The United Way is honored and respected across the nation. You do not have to apologize when you ask for money for the United Way," Stack stated. "The world is getting very small. We have to help each other and you have taken one big step becoming a United Way volunteer," he added.

He said the government shift of responsibility for the underprivileged is welcome, since states and local governmental agencies should be able to administer the programs more efficiently than Washington. The United Way is much the same. "We control the United Way volunteers," he added, "our money is spent," Stack commented.

Wilmameyer asked all volunteers to seek 60 percent of their goals by the next meeting Oct. 16, one month after the kickoff. "I think we can make that. Go out with determination and let's get it done," he concluded.

State booklet details area of subsidence

The Illinois State Geological Survey has released a new booklet concerning homeowner insurance for areas affected by mine subsidence.

Coal has been and still is an important Illinois resource. Almost 750,000 acres of coal mines lie beneath the Illinois soil. The mines, many abandoned, might cause headaches for some homeowners in the state. The reason: subsidence, the sinking or settling of the land above the mines.

Although subsidence is rare, it does happen. The best way to protect you from financial loss if your house is affected is with special homeowner's insurance. If one percent or more of your county is undermined, the insurance is automatically included in your policy when it is renewed. (If you do not wish to carry coverage, you may sign a waiver.) You may purchase subsidence insurance upon request regardless of the percent of your county that is undermined.

A publication showing where areas of Illinois have mines, and explaining how subsidence might affect your home is available free from the Illinois State Geological Survey on the University of Illinois campus. Send your requests for "Mine Subsidence in Illinois: Facts for the Homeowner Considering Insurance" to: Illinois State Geological Survey, 615 East Peabody Drive, Champaign, Illinois 61820.

92% of BAC graduates pass nursing exams

Ninety-two percent of the May 1981 Belleville Area College nursing graduates have passed the state examination for registered nursing.

Forty-six students passed the State Board Test Pool Examination from a class of 50. The remaining four students only failed one of five tests that compose the state boards.

Betty Thompson, director of the nursing program at BAC, said she is confident these students will pass when they retake the test in February.

Statewide in 1980, 81.9 percent of those taking the state boards passed, and nationally the figure was 84.2 percent.

Thompson said BAC nursing graduates have a high rate of job placement at local hospitals with the largest number working at Memorial and St. Elizabeth's hospitals.

BAC offers an associate of applied science degree in nursing, which transfers into a four-year college or university for those seeking a bachelor's degree. The school has the capacity for 80 students and is taking applications for the 1982 school year.

Grand jury asks in report for 'more time'

One of the best-kept secrets in Madison County is what topic the grand juries have been studying. Whatever the topic is, and county officials hint it may deal with "official corruption," must be interesting, as the second grand jury in a row has asked that the four-month term for which grand juries are empaneled be extended due to "insufficient time in which to gather information concerning certain criminal activity," according to the final report of the last grand jury.

The 23-member grand jury which ended its session late last month also recommended that at least five members of each grand jury be retained for the following grand jury term, a recommendation also made by the previous grand jury. "We find that such action would allow continuity for certain on-going criminal investigations currently under investigation by this grand jury," the group which disbanded last month suggested.

The grand jury which ended its session last week included the Quad City area residents — Gail Stiefker, Cindy Kirschner and Ricky Westbrock, all of Granite City, and Virginia Boxdorfer and Eugene Dummavant, both of Madison.

The new grand jury, empaneled Sept. 28, includes eight Quad-City area residents, including the foreman, Virginia Jane Oram of Granite City. Others are Henry Ashauer Jr., Bernard Jenkins, Doris Teeler, Harriet Mercer, and Charles E. Bone, all of Granite City, Robert Mosley Jr. of Madison and Ronald White of Venice.

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber said Friday that he could not comment on the grand jury's activities, but did comment, "In the areas of rapes and other crimes, four months is plenty for a grand jury. It is in the official corruption areas that you need more time for the grand juries."

He declined to elaborate on or say what area of the county may be involved, if there is an investigation of official corruption underway.

In an apparently unrelated action, the outgoing grand jury recommended that State's Attorney Don Weber ask the Illinois Department of Public Health to begin termination proceedings against Anthony Monoh, an aide in the county's sexually-transmitted disease clinic. Monoh was found innocent in a trial this summer of fondling one woman patient, but is awaiting trial on similar allegations by two other women patients.

The grand jury also commended Assistant State's Attorney Randy Massey for his cooperation with the grand jury and for his work and "persistent efforts" in protecting a child from a potential abuse situation. One thing studied by this grand jury was an allegation by the state's attorney's office that the Department of Children and Family Services had acted wrongly when it returned a child to the custody of his mother, even though the child was scheduled to testify against the mother in a child abuse case.

Also commended was Jerry Lipchik, 3029 Maryville Road, chief bailiff for the grand jury, "for his attitude and cooperation with the grand jury. This made the grand jury's job considerably easier," according to the final report.

It was noted in the outgoing grand jury's report that the various county institutions and buildings were inspected and some deficiencies were found, particularly in the shelter care home.

It recommended that the sleeping cots there be replaced by beds with innerspring mattresses, additional outdoor chairs and tables be purchased, the steam radiators be covered, the kitchen be refurbished for better ventilation and new cooking utensils and that a 10-passenger van or bus be purchased to help transport the elderly residents to various functions.

It also found fault in the Madison County Juvenile Detention Home. "The cleanliness of the facility (left) much to be desired and the outside recreation area was in need of maintenance," the report contended.

The new county jail was found to be in good condition, except for roof damage from this summer's tornado, "which is causing high maintenance costs," the report continued.

At the nursing home, replacement of a back stairway to the therapy room was the only recommendation of the grand jury.

The report was signed by George McPherson of Cottage Hills, foreman, and was accepted by Circuit Judge A.A. Matosian of Granite City.

Board studies building plans

The Madison Board of Education spent time Thursday night at its meeting to review tentative plans and suggestions from Henry R. Gabriel, architect, on the use of the old junior high building on Third Street in Madison.

Although all plans are tentative, the board is depending largely on student need and cost factors: —widening the gym doors to 10 feet to enable vehicles to get in and out —convert gym into automotive vocational repair after blacktopping the basketball court. —convert stage area into an automotive painting area. —use band room for storage. —raise floor in shower rooms to use for class room. —available to handicapped. —put in ramps for handicapped in various parts of the lower level. —home economics room to be used for home economics, as well as using the general shop room for shop.

It was felt that there is much area on the lower level (basement) for vocational training including electric, welding and plumbing.

The board felt there was ample class room and parking at the old school at Belleville Area College adult classes.

Moving all Title I classes on the second floor was suggested which would give Title I programs more room.

The top floor, the board felt, could be best used as storage area.

The board is studying the architects drawings and suggested uses and will hold several meetings before deciding on what would be the best route to follow, and get cost figures from the architect.

Superintendent of Schools John Palchiff reported that the only windows out at Blair school now are in the multi-purpose room and they were being fixed.

He further noted that the fan on the blower is working and the entire ventilation system is working.

Curriculum Director Dolores Folkerts reported that she visited the new Middle school and was very pleased. She noted that the faculty was using a team approach coordinating teaching plans by grade levels.

She noted that the coordinated drug education program "Get High on Yourself" worked well and that there are several mini-courses at the middle school that were proving beneficial to the students, but also very interesting and helpful for the Middle school students.

Black Hawk run ends

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that he is standing by his decision to halt state funding for the Black Hawk Amtrak train between Chicago and Dubuque, Iowa after Wednesday.

"This was not an easy decision," Thompson said. "But the State just cannot afford to subsidize this train run given Illinois' current fiscal condition."

Thompson noted that the state subsidy, which has been in place for seven years, has grown 90 percent in just two years from $40,000 to $87,000 and that the per capita subsidy provided by the state is double that for other state trains.

"I met last week with interested groups from the areas affected and have since talked to the Department of Transportation. The fact is that the communities along this route just have not provided enough passengers to support this train," the governor said, noting that the federal government already has withdrawn its funding for the run.

The Black Hawk was scheduled to stop operation after Wednesday.

Study shows wide impacts on new jobs in local area

Results of a study commissioned by the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce indicate that the impact of 100 new jobs would be on the Quad-City area have been released and some of the findings were surprising, according to Alan Richardson, executive director of the Chamber.

The study shows that if a manufacturer who employs 100 persons would open a business here, the major impact on the area would occur three years later.

Initial employment, including support services and offerings, would rise by 1,451 persons, personal income in the Quad-City area would rise by $54.2 million and total taxes would increase by $1,553,000.

Real estate sales would climb by $22 million (with 813 homes sold in the first year the business was open, 1,108 homes sold in the second year, and 465 sold in the third year), according to the survey.

One hundred new jobs also would involve the opening of 80 new businesses in the first four years and 91 service establishments in the same period, the survey shows.

Bank deposits would increase by $16.9 million in the first year after the business opened, would decline to $13.9 million the second year, $10.7 million in the third year, $7.5 in the fourth year, and then would stabilize at about $4.1 million a year for the next six years.

Time savings deposits would reach $11.5 million in new dollars the first year and would drop in subsequent years to $3.4 million, $6 million and $4.2 million before stabilizing at $3.1 million for the next five years.

manufacturing employees and construction workers patronize retail outlets. Houses are built and there is a general spurt of economic activity," Professor Heins stated.

"After a time, the spurt passes and a new level of total economic activity envelops the community in support of the basic jobs," he explained.

By the time the new business employing 100 persons had been in existence for 10 years, personal income associated with that business would have stabilized at $9.4 million ($94,000 a year); taxes would be up $467,000 a year; property taxes would be up $53,000 a year; retail sales would total $5.5 million a year, service receipts would be $1.6 million a year, employment would be 37.

persons more than without the new business, there would be 340 more housing units occupied, nearly nine new retail businesses and eight service establishments, bank deposits would be $4.1 million a year higher and time deposits would be $3.1 million greater than if the business had never opened.

WOOLY WORM CAUCUS. From the looks of things, the woolly worms of Madison County are having a caucus to consider whether or not their coats will get them through the winter. Nancy Behrens, a photographer at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has provided them with the meeting place.

$35 million released to aging agencies

Governor James R. Thompson has announced that Federal and State funds totaling nearly $35 million have been awarded by the Illinois Department on Aging to 13 Area Agencies on Aging across the State to fund social and nutrition services for Illinois' older citizens.

"These funds will assure that Illinois' senior citizens will continue to receive essential support services to promote their well-being and enrich their quality of life," Thompson said.

Awarded on a formula basis, the funds will finance the delivery of social and nutrition services which will be provided throughout the State beginning October 1, 1981 and extending through September 30, 1982.

Peg R. Blaser, director of the Illinois Department on Aging explained, "The social services to be provided with these funds include transportation, home health, legal assistance and employment services."

"These funds will also assure the continuation of the statewide nutrition program for the elderly," Blaser added.

More than 500 nutrition sites operate throughout the State, serving nutritious meals to over 25,000 older persons each day. Home-delivered meals are also available for older persons who are homebound.

The six parts of the event are games, ceremonies, craft session, pack administration, Webelos and skits and puppets.

Small businesses using revenue bonds to finance pollution control

Small businesses across Illinois are financing needed pollution-control equipment through a state and federal program that enables them to raise capital for as little as half the cost of conventional bank loans.

"Two kinds of businesses in the state are taking advantage of this program," said Ronald Bean, executive director, Illinois Environmental Facilities Financing Authority (IEFFA).

"One type is manufacturing or processing companies that need equipment to control pollution caused by their facilities in order to comply with governmental environmental-protection regulations.

"The second is companies whose business is controlling pollution caused by others. A solid waste disposal company is one example."

Under this program, the IEFFA issues revenue bonds on behalf of several small businesses to finance purchase of pollution control equipment, Bean explained. The Authority lends the proceeds of the bond sales to the companies. Repayment of that loan is guaranteed by the Small Business Administration. And, the Internal Revenue Service exempts interest paid to purchasers of these bonds from federal income tax.

This combination of the tax exemption and the SBA guarantee, which earns for the bonds a AAA rating, produces attractive investment instruments for the underwriter to offer to institutional and private markets.

"With these bonds, companies can raise capital at a reduced interest rate. In addition to this, the repayment is extended to the life of the equipment, usually 20 or more years," Bean added.

"Without this program, a small business obtaining a conventional bank loan would probably pay two or three points above prime interest rate. Under current conditions, this would mean paying 12 to 14 percent interest over five to six years."

Bean noted that major corporations—the Exxons, General Motors, and U.S. Steels of American industry—can raise capital through bonds of this nature. In fact, the authority issues such bonds for them.

assets.

"On the other hand, the banker does not want to strain a valued business relationship by turning down his regular business customer."

With this program, he can suggest to his customer an alternative to a bank loan that in some cases cuts financing costs in half."

The program also builds business for Illinois designers, manufacturers, and installers of pollution-control systems by increasing demand for their goods and services, Bean said. And it provides underwriters with another investment instrument to sell.

"With all the advantages of the program, you might think that we'd be inundated with applications," Bean says. "But we're not. I believe there are at least two reasons for this."

"First, many small businesses are not aware of the program. Secondly, some business owners who know of the program are leery of an enterprise—no matter how attractive—that involves federal and state agencies, underwriters and lawyers. They fear entangling themselves in unending red tape, consuming time, and incurring huge legal and administrative expenses.

"To be sure, there are complications forms to be filled out and information to be organized and presented. But, the Authority and underwriter have thorough knowledge of the process and help the company every step of the way."

"In addition, the Authority waives for small businesses two fees charged for large corporations. These are a $1,000 application fee and an issuance fee, one-fifth of one percent of the bond's face value.

All costs incurred by the company to issue the bond are included in the amount to be financed through the sale of the bonds. In other words, the company raises through the bond not only the money it needs to buy the pollution-control equipment but also the money needed to issue the bonds."

Centennial farm program

By Ronald E. Cornwell
Extension Farm Adviser

If you live in Madison County and own a farm that has been in the family for 100 years, you will be interested in the Centennial Farm Program. The Illinois Department of Agriculture is continuing the program in 1981.

The program proved popular in 1978 and 1979 when 480 farms were designated as centennial farms. Under the Centennial Farm Program, those who can show that their farm has been in the same family for 100 continuous years or more are eligible to receive a centennial sign and certificate.

The Centennial Farm Program is a special recognition for those who have kept the farm in the family for the past century. There is no limit on the number of acres to qualify for the designation.

To qualify, a centennial farm application must be verified by a qualified person, such as a recorder of deeds or a lawyer. If the application is verified, the landowner can receive a centennial farm sign and certificate. Cost of the sign is a little over $10.

Applications for the Centennial Farm Sign Program are available at the Madison County Extension office, 900 Hillsboro, Edwardsville.

Student Guest Day at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 17.

All high school students interested in attending the University of Illinois College of Agriculture or school of Human Resources and Family studies should consider attending. This is an opportunity to explore some of the many career areas available.

The program begins at 9:30 a.m. with registration for the day. The morning program covers general information about the University of Illinois. The afternoon program includes visits to the various departments in the College of Agriculture and Department of Home Economics to explore the various career areas.

For additional information on the program, contact the Madison County Extension office.

A scale pest problem has been developing on spruce and pine trees in the Madison County area.

On a heavily infested tree, the needles may appear nearly white. A close inspection of the needles will reveal a very small scale insect. The scale insect has a protective shell under which they feed, develop, lay eggs and die.

The pest overwinters in the egg stage under female scales. In the spring, the young crawl away from the mother shell and move about for a few days before they settle down. They insert their beaks into the plant tissue and begin to grow, losing their legs and antenna as they begin to secrete a material that forms a shell over them for protection.

The scale insects as a general group make up a large group of destructive plant pests. They can infest leaves, twigs, branches, trunks or fruits of a tree depending on the species of scale. They may seriously retard plant growth and kill shrubs or trees. They are able to develop enormous populations. The removal of sap from a plant by thousands of scales is what causes the damage.

The life cycle of the pest is important to know for successful control. The pine needle scale must be controlled at the time the young move out from under the protective shell of the mother scale in the spring, and before they form a hard protective shell of their own.

You should spray during May to control the pine needle scale. The chemicals suggested for control include malathion, orthene and diazinon. Spraying in the fall of the year will probably not be effective.

Madison County farmers are well aware of the extensive rainfall received this summer in the Madison County area. The rainfall has been one factor in having an extremely good crop year production wise.

The report for St. Louis was 19.84 inches. This was the third wettest summer behind 1915 and 1948.

Sanitation test course is offered

Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville is offering classes during the fall quarter in preparation for food service sanitation certification, according to William Crabb, director of University Food Service.

Classes meet on Mondays from 7 until 9 p.m. in the Centennial Room of the University Center. Classes have already begun. Registration is $45. Coursework includes lectures, demonstrations, films and other visual aids necessary to prepare participants for the state food service certification examination, Crabb said.

All food service establishments in the state are required to have a certified supervisor on duty during normal operation hours, he said.

Turnaround noted in bank card use

The recent decline in bank charge card business began to ease at the conclusion of the fiscal year ended June 30, 1981, in the trade area which includes metropolitan St. Louis.

Mastercard and Visa dollar volume increased 29 percent in June, with the number of individual transactions increasing 17 percent.

The new shift in bank card activity was reported in the annual review of Credit Systems Incorporated released on Sept. 30 at the company's annual meeting. CSI is the operating center for Mastercard and Visa in Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Illinois, and Western Kentucky.

For the full fiscal year, the combined volume of both cards was $1,917,096,000 — a new record, but only five percent higher than the previous year. The number of individual retail sales and bank cash advances declined five percent to $4,495,000. The average cardholder transaction was $34, up from $31.19 last year.

The area's bank card program includes 847 Mastercard and Visa banks — up 35 from last year — and 68,000 merchant outlets, serving over 2,000,000 cardholders.

Ten members of the CSI board of directors were re-elected at the meeting. James C. Stewart, executive vice-president, First National Bank of Kansas City, was elected chairman, and Norman J. Tice, president, City Bank, St. Louis, was elected vice-chairman.

New guidelines for supplemental food

New U.S. Department of Agriculture income eligibility guidelines will lower the maximum income limit of people receiving benefits under the Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children.

According to Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Mary C. Jarratt, the new rules will set the maximum income limit at 185 percent of the official poverty line instead of the previous 195 percent of poverty, plus a standard deduction.

"The change will allow more of those at the lower end of the income scale to participate, by removing from eligibility some people at the higher income limit," Mrs. Jarratt said. "It is a matter of targeting benefits to those in greatest need can be served."

States may set their own income cutoff limits anywhere between the new federal guidelines and their own limit for free or reduced-price health care. However, income limits may not be set lower than the poverty line.

To qualify for participation in the program under the new federal limits, the annual income for a family of four may not exceed $15,630, or 185 percent of the poverty line. Previously, the same family was eligible for the program with an income, plus a standard deduction, that totaled $17,560.

About 2.2 million participants now receive nutrition education and health benefits from the program, which is administered nationally by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service. The program provides supplemental foods and nutrition education to pregnant and breastfeeding women and infants and children up to age 5 from families with an inadequate income who are at nutritional risk, Mrs. Jarratt said.

The new rule implements a provision of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981.

The program is operated in cooperation with 50 states, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and 29 Indian agencies. USDA provides cash grants for the program to state health departments, which, in turn, distributes funds to participants and for specified administrative costs, including those for nutrition education.

Three categories of food packages are issued each month. Each package costs USDA about $28 per month. Regulations specify the maximum quantities and types of foods provided. The foods include infant formula, cereal and juice for infants.

Children and pregnant or breastfeeding women may receive milk, cheese, cereal, juice, eggs and dry beans or peanut butter. Non-breastfeeding, postpartum women may receive milk, cheese, cereal, juice and eggs. There is also a special package for women and children with special dietary needs which includes formula, cereal and juice.

The new income guidelines for all family sizes for the continental U.S., as well as guidelines adjusted for the cost of living for Alaska, Hawaii, and Guam, were published in the Sept. 25 Federal Register.

Gateway council plans transit study in area

At its regular monthly meeting the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council board of directors heard a presentation on the first phase of an analysis of public transit service in the metropolitan area.

The analysis, which is being conducted for the Gateway Council by Multi-Systems Inc. and Management Analysis Center Inc., compares the Bi-State Development Agency with six other public transit systems which operate in similar-sized metropolitan areas and which are similar in character to Bi-State.

The presentation included an analysis of Bi-State's corporate structure as well as its performance in the areas of costs, effectiveness, maintenance, efficiency, expenses and internal management. The report also examines regional public transportation service needs and offers options for future transit financing.

Acting on recommendations of the Council's CBD Bridge Committee, the board withdrew its proposal to create an interstate bridge commission, opting instead to work through existing entities to solve the downtown Mississippi River bridge problems.

Seek signatures on petition for initiative power vote

An Illinois citizens group is asking Illinois citizens to look across the river to Missouri on the Big Truck issue. Missouri citizens have just filed 160,000 signatures under Missouri's initiative power to stop the Big Truck law. Illinois citizens don't have such a power, and the Coalition for Political Honesty believes they should.

The Big Truck law was passed recently by the Missouri legislature despite widespread opposition from Missouri citizens who contend that bigger trucks on Missouri highways are unsafe and will damage and wear out Missouri roads.

"Missouri citizens can file 160,000 signatures and have the people decide at an election if a law is bad," said David Vaughn, a Coalition spokesman.

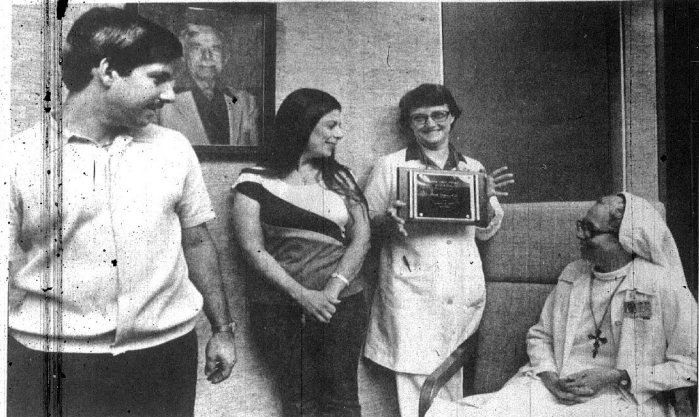

"In Illinois, the legislature has a monopoly on passing bad laws, and that's it, period. Illinois citizens simply don't have this right that Missouri citizens value — the right to petition a proposed law onto the ballot for a binding vote."

The Coalition for Political Honesty has gathered over 50,000 signatures to place a constitutional amendment on the ballot to establish an initiative power in Illinois. Now, Illinois citizens can petition for some limited constitutional amendments, but don't have the power to pass laws affecting taxes, safety, utility rates, ethics in government, or any other general laws. The Illinois Legislature passes about 1,000 laws each year.

"The initiative power gives citizens a check and balance when the legislature makes a mistake. With the initiative power, Illinois citizens could correct legislative mistakes just like Missouri voters are doing now on the Big Truck law."

Illinois citizens interested in establishing the initiative power in Illinois can contact the Coalition for Political Honesty at P.O. Box 3070, Fairview Heights, Illinois 62208 for petitions and information or call 618-398-1071.

Courses for seniors increase

In only four years, participation by area senior citizens in non-credit learning experiences offered by the Metro-East Institute of Lifetime Learning has increased more than five times, according to Clyde Fisher, assistant director of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville Office of Continuing Education.

The Metro-East Institute of Lifetime Learning is a cooperative venture of SIUE, Belleville Area College, Lewis and Clark Community College, and State Community College, as well as the regional chapters of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). Fisher told guests attending the Institute's fourth annual luncheon recently that during the first year of operation four years ago, 448 seniors enrolled in 34 classes at eight locations in the area. In the year just completed, 2,302 persons attended 165 classes at 30 different locations. Fisher said the Institute will offer 77 courses at various locations in the area this fall.

Earl Larson, president of SIUE, welcomed the group to the Edwardsville campus. Luncheon guests include representatives from the four area educational institutions and members from area chapters of AARP, as well as senior citizens who have participated in one or more classes.

Officers installed during the annual meeting included: Vernice Walter of Granite City, general chairman; Fred Lewis, Edwardsville, vice chairman; Paul Uhley, Belleville, secretary; Clyde Fisher, Edwardsville, treasurer; and Lucille Schanter, Belleville, historian.

Classes offered during the past four years have reflected the interests and needs of area senior citizens and have included informational, skill-developing and social and physical activity courses.

Senior citizens wishing to learn more about the organization should telephone Reba Klenke at 692-3210.

Germany studied by Travelers Abroad

"Germany along the Rhine" was the topic for the Travelers Abroad first fall meeting last week.

There were 28 persons present. Miss Dorothy Ruff and Mrs. Thelma Munday were guests.

Mrs. Mary Evangelou, president, conducted a brief business meeting. Walter Klein named the members who passed away this summer and there was a moment of silent prayer in their memory.

Miss Betty Townsend, vice-president in charge of programs, introduced Mrs. Ann Turner, who presented a slide program of "Germany Along the Rhine."

Mrs. Turner was born in Germany and now is an American citizen living in Pontoon Beach. She has been fortunate enough to be able to return to her parents' home in Wiesbaden every year for the past 15 years. On the Rhine, Mrs. Turner said, she adds to her slides, so that her program covers various seasons and years.

According to Mrs. Turner, the Rhine starts in Switzerland, but to see the most picturesque sections, one should start his trip either at Mainz or Wiesbaden. Her home town, she said, was built by the Romans who were interested in the thermal springs and their use for curing rheumatism. Wiesbaden is still famous as a spa and is not an industrialized city.

Mrs. Turner showed the beautiful view that she sees from her bedroom at her parents' house and said she is trying to develop that view at her present home. She has planted many flowers and trees, but said she does not know how to get the mountains to her area.

When she first came here, she felt as if she were in prison because we had screens on the windows. In Wiesbaden there are no mosquitos or flies and no one has screens. She said she does appreciate the screens now.

As Mrs. Turner took the group "down the Rhine" with slides from one of the cruise ships, they passed many vineyards clinging to the sides of the mountains. She said it was necessary for the owners to build walls to keep the dirt of the vineyards from washing down the mountainside. If dirt does wash away, the owner must carry the dirt back by his physical labor, because the steepness of the mountains does not allow any tending the vineyards.

Most of the villages along the Rhine were built between 1800 and 1850. Mrs. Turner called attention to the narrow streets, far too narrow for cars, where neighbors could almost lean out their windows and shake hands across the street. If we were fortunate enough to take a trip on the Rhine, Mrs. Turner said, we should get off the boat and explore. One sees much from the boat but also misses much.

Many castles were passed—both relics of the past and those still wholly intact. At Markburg is the best preserved castle. It is supposed to have seven floors underground. Mrs. Turner said it was easy to determine if a castle has a chapel. If it does, the chapel will jut out from the rest of the building. There is never a room above the chapel, because no one walks on the roof of God.

The Lorelei Mountain was shown and several legends relating to its inhabitants were told. The passable Rhine is extremely narrow here and most boats require an experienced pilot for this stretch of the river. This has helped lend credence to the rumors that abound.

According to Mrs. Turner, anyone tracing his ancestors back to the owners of castles along the Rhine might find that the ancestors were "robber barons" who made a good living robbing the boats on this river. The Pfalz, an island in the Rhine between Bacharach and Kaub, has a castle dating back to the 1300's which was known as the toll gate. Boats passing in either direction were required to pay a toll before they were allowed to continue their journeys.

One very interesting slide that Mrs. Turner showed was from a parade in Wiesbaden. A focal point was the convertible that the late President John F. Kennedy was riding in. Mrs. Turner said she did not see former President Kennedy in America, but she saw him in Germany.

At the end of the program, a drawing for an attendance prize was held and the winner was Miss Virginia Segar. Miss Alice Purdes volunteered to check into a location for the group's Christmas party.

Cut heating expenses by using electric blanket

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK

Home Economics Adviser

One of the easier ways to cut down on the expenses of heating your home during the winter is to turn down the thermostat at night and either throw more blankets on, or use an electric blanket.

Although an electric blanket may look like an ordinary cloth blanket, and certainly it serves much the same warming purpose, its electric components and wiring mean special care must be taken with its maintenance and use.

Manufacturers and testing laboratories recommend that you follow these safety precautions when using an electric blanket:

— Read the manufacturer's instructions thoroughly before using the blanket.

— Don't use the blanket on an infant, helpless person or anyone insensitive to heat.

— Do not tuck in the wired area of the blanket. Overheating can result in the risk of fire between the mattress and the box spring.

— Don't use pins. They may damage the wiring.

— Keep the control away from an open window. A cold draft may affect the operation of the thermostat so that a higher temperature than desired may result.

— If present, use the snaps crimped into the bottom corners to tuck in the blanket.

— Square the corners of the electric blanket neatly as a guide to prevent tucking in any wiring.

— Avoid bunching or folding the blanket when in use to prevent overheating.

— Turn the blanket off when not in use.

— Unless otherwise marked and instructed, do not dry-clean your electric blanket. The solvents used may cause the blanket's insulation to deteriorate.

— Always follow the instructions for the care and laundering of your electric blanket.

— If you observe a problem in the operation of the blanket, discontinue its use immediately and consult the manufacturer or the dealer.

— As with any other electric appliance, periodically check its cords and connectors. Use and the aging process can damage any of these parts.

Use blankets that display the UL listed label—it means that the design of the blanket has been investigated and found to meet nationally recognized safety standards.

Officer Petrillo hurt in accident

Granite City Police Officer Donald Petrillo, 25, was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 4:40 a.m. Saturday, after the squad car he was driving was involved in an auto accident.

Petrillo suffered a cut chin, two cuts on his back, bruises to his elbow, knees and legs and suffered pain in his back.

Terry L. Bailey, 21, of Florissant, Mo., was treated and released from SEMC at 3:05 a.m. Saturday, suffering from pain to his left knee, leg, side, and ribs. Bailey was released from police custody on an automobile club bond card on charges of improper lane usage, reckless driving and illegal transportation of alcohol.

Officer Petrillo was driving a police car north on Route 3 about three-tenths of a mile south of Rock Road and the auto driven by Bailey was southbound and allegedly drove up on the median island, crossed into the other lane, struck the police car and then a fence, and continued into the Parktowne West Mobile Home Park, according to official reports.

Supplemental insurance changes ok'd by governor

Purchasers of accident and health insurance which is to supplement Medicare benefits now have the right to reject coverage for the deductible amount of Part A, which presently is $204.

This provision was included in changes in Medicare supplemental insurance recently signed into law by Governor James R. Thompson.

Another change extended the time to 30 days the purchaser of Medicare supplemental insurance has to request a full refund of any premium paid, reported Philip R. O'Connor, director, Illinois Department of Insurance.

Insurance issued to supplemental Medicare benefits, after Jan. 1, 1982, may not exclude benefits for pre-existing condition occurring more than 12 months before the date of the policy, said O'Connor, who noted, "Previously the pre-existing condition exclusion had been for two years."

The new law requires payment under Medicare Part B for 20 percent of all Medicare eligible charges, said the insurance director. O'Connor observed previously insurers were required to pay only 20 percent of physicians' charges and he suggested, "the new law requires payment for prescriptions, rehabilitation devices and therapy, as well as other medical care ordered."

Any solicitation to encourage a consumer to switch coverage from one policy to supplement Medicare benefits to another must include giving notice of the possible problems to be encountered, such as restarting the period during which expense for pre-existing condition will be excluded from any benefits paid, noted Director O'Connor. Health maintenance organizations now come under all requirements for accident and health insurance issued to supplement Medicare benefits, said O'Connor.

Carpenter ends Europe exercise

Army Pvt. Richard W. Carpenter, son of Mildred Carpenter, 3001 Kirkpatrick Homes, has participated in "Reforger '81," a series of training exercises conducted by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) forces in Europe.

Carpenter, assigned at Fort Riley, Kan., with the First Armor Division, joined with members of his unit to provide support for the United States and allied forces taking part in this annual exercise.

The 13th of its series, Reforger '81 tested mobility, plans, capabilities and support agreements between military and civilian transportation agencies of both the United States and its NATO partners.

The exercise, according to Department of Defense officials, provided soldiers and their best possible peacetime training for performance of duty under simulated combat conditions.

Nearly 17,000 people along with 27,000 tons of equipment were sent to Europe from the United States in support of Reforger '81.
